Close of the Parliament—Speech of the King.

The close of the North German Parliament by the King of Prussia in person, as previously announced by Count VON BISMARCK during the morning sitting, took place at noon on the 17th, in the White Saloon of the Royal Palace, at Berlin. A large number of Deputies were present, including Prince FREDERICK CHARLES. The Left, however, was only represented by HERREN, BECKER and SCHARAPS. In the box of the diplomatic body were the Ambassadors of England, Russia, Denmark and Holland. The Queen and Crown Princess, with her eldest son, were in the Royal box. On the entry of the King, Herr SIMPSON, President of the Parliament, exclaimed, "Long live the King, the Protector of the German Bund!" His Majesty then delivered the following speech from the throne:

ILLUSTRIOUS, NOBLE AND HONORABLE MEMBERS OF THE PARLIAMENT OF THE NORTH GERMAN CONFEDERATION: I see you again assembled before me at the termination of your important labors with a feeling of sincere satisfaction. The hope I recently expressed from this place, in the name of the allied Governments, have since then, through your aid, been brought to a fulfillment. With patriotic earnestness you have understood the greatness of your task, and have kept in view our common object with voluntary self-restraint. For that reason we have succeeded in establishing upon a secure basis a Constitution whose development we may confidently leave to the future. The Federal authority is furnished with the attributes indispensable to it, but also sufficient for the prosperity and power of the Confederation. The individual States, while the future is guaranteed by the totality of the Bund, have retained their freedom of action in all departments wherein variety and development is admissable, and salutary population representation is secured by that coöperation in carrying out the great national objects which corresponds to the spirit of the existing acquisitions of the countries, and the necessity of the Governments to see their action supported by the agreement of the German people. All of us who have coöperated in carrying out the national task, the allied Governments as well as the representatives of the people have readily made the sacrifice of our views and our wishes, and we were able to do so in the conviction that these sacrifices were made for Germany, and that they were worth our union. By this universal readiness, coupled with the conciliation of victory over opposing views, the guarantee is, at the same time, gained for that future fruitful development of the confederation, with the conclusion of which also the hope common to us with our brethren in South Germany have advanced nearer to their fulfillment. The time has arrived when our German fatherland is able to uphold its place, its rights and its dignity by its own collective strength. The national self-consciousness which has met with a powerful echo from all quarters of Germany, none the less, however, are all the Governments and people of Germany unanimous that the regained power of the action has, above all, to uphold its significance by rendering secure its blessings of peace. Honorable gentlemen, the great work in which we have been thought worthy, by Providence, to coöperate, is approaching its completion. The popular representation of the individual States will not refuse their constitutional recognition to what you have created in community with their Governments. The same spirit that has enabled the task to succeed here, will also preside over their deliberations. Thus, then, the first Parliament of the South German Confederation may close its labors with the elevating consciousness that it is accompanied by the thanks of the fatherland, and that the work it has accomplished will, with the help of Providence, be fully developed both in our time and future generations. May God bestow his blessings upon us and our dear fatherland.

After the delivery of the speech, Count BISMARCK, on behalf of the Federal Governments, declared the session closed. The Saxon Plenipotentiary then called upon the assembly to give three cheers for the King of Prussia.

The Prussian Armaments.

A Berlin dispatch of the 17th ult. says: "An official declaartion has been published here with regard to the various rumors current as to Prussian armaments. The declaration states that, with the exception of the increased organization of the line and Landwehr, begun last Autumn and now completed, rendered necessary by the new acquisition of territory, no special military measures have been adopted. The Rhenish fortresses are not yet armed. No unusual demands have been made upon the firearm factories; the stock of needle guns in the depots was already sufficient to furnish the arms required without further expenditure."

The Relations of Holland and Luxemburg.

The Constitutionnel of April 17 says: "We learn from reliable sources that the Government of the Netherlands, wishing once more to confirm the fact that no connection exists between it and the Government of the Grand Duchy of Luxemburg, and that Holland and Luxemburg form two States with two separate governments, has ordered its diplomatic agents to refrain henceforth from taking any part in the affair of the Grand Duchy, and from all interference in anything relating to the interest of the inhabitants of that country."

A French View of the Designs of Prussia.

The Journal des Debats publishes an article, the tenor of which is that Prussia, to enable her to accomplish her "providential mission," feels the necessity of becoming a maritime Power. To attain that object she is determined on, or at least is desirous of, annexing Holland, or placing her in "subordination" to Germany. Holland was made aware of this intention, and the fear of being annexed or made dependent on Prussia prompted her to demand the assistance of France. The cession of Luxemburg to the Emperor having encountered serious obstacles, Holland—feeling the extreme perilousness of her position—seeks the alliance of England, France and Belgium; and the "idea of this alliance," says the Debats, "has not been rejected by the Cabinet of the Tuileries, and is the subject of serious consideration at London and Brussels. Numerous addresses were in circulation in Luxemburg petitioning the King of Holland for the maintenance of the independence of Luxemburg. They have been very generally signed throughout the Duchy."

Return of Mrs. Jefferson Davis to Fortress Monroe—Davis Expects Speedy Release.

FORTRESS MONROE, Monday, April 29.

Mrs. JEFF. DAVIS, accompanied by Dr. PEMBERTON, brother of the rebel Gen. PEMBERTON, returned here yesterday morning from a visit to Washington, where she has been for several days past engaged in interviews with prominent Southern men upon the question of Mr. DAVIS' release. The result of her visit is not known.

Dr. CALLAN, a Notary Public of Washington, and an old friend of Mr. DAVIS, was here several days prior to the departure of Mrs. DAVIS, and went with her to Washington to use his influence, it is said, in the efforts which are now being made to have Mr. DAVIS released.

Mr. DAVIS is in remarkably good health and spirits, and in conversation with friends has lately spoken very confidently of an early release from his long confinement.

WASHINGTON.

AFFAIRS AT THE NATIONAL CAPITAL.

Special Dispatches to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, Tuesday, April 30.

THE RECONSTRUCTION LAW.

The Attorney-General did not finish his opinion on the Reconstruction Law to-day in time to submit it to the Cabinet meeting. I learn that every District Commander has applied to Gen. GRANT for this official interpretation, and what is rather a marked coincidence, all the Commanders have put exactly the same interpretation upon the disfranchising clause, to wit, that every person who ever took an oath as an Executive or Judicial officer to support the Constitution of the United States, and subsequently engaged in rebellion, is thereby disfranchised, and that this includes all such executive officers as Sheriffs, Constables and their deputies, and such Judicial offices as Justices of the Peace. This greatly enlarges the disfranchised class, and it is urged that the law did not contemplate the exclusion of the holders of such petty offices. A close reading of the law, however, justifies this application, although the Attorney-General may find grounds on which to base a more liberal opinion.

BACK PAY FOR OFFICERS' SERVANTS.

It will be remembered that in February a decision was rendered by the Court of Claims on a case brought by CHIPMAN, HOSMER & Co., of this city, which gives to officers who were in commission from May 1, 1864, to March 3, 1865, $5 per month back pay for each servant kept by them during that period, and which was withheld under a decision of the Comptroller. After this decision was rendered Congress passed a law which was thought to extinguish their claims, whereupon their attorneys began a new case in order to test the effect of the last law. The suit was brought for Col. OWEN A. BASSETT, a Kansas officer, and judgment rendered for the amount claimed, the Court deciding that the law could not have a retroactive effect so as to destroy rights vested by contract. The reasoning of the Court is the same as in the other opinion published, the only new question being the effect of the last law, upon which the decision was as above stated, and was also unanimous.

POSTAL SERVICE SOUTH.

Gentlemen thoroughly conversant with postal affairs, who had just returned from a tour through the States lately in rebellion, represent the service of the Post-office Department as characterized by a degree of efficiency and economy remarkable, in view of the obstacles encountered in reorganizing the service after the war.

BLACKMAILING.

JOHN CRANE, Collector of Internal Revenue for the Fifth North Carolina District, has finally received his commission in spite of the efforts of unscrupulous parties to induce the President to withhold it.

During the late Executive Session of the Senate the practice on the part of the friends of defeated candidates of making false charges in order to prevent by foul means what they could not by fair, grew to be quite an evil. In most cases, undoubtedly, the successful candidate was made to bleed in order to neutralize the supposed influence of these vampires. It deserves to be exposed.

PERSONAL.

The Secretary of State returned from Auburn this morning considerably improved by his trip. He attended the Cabinet meeting to-day, as also did all the others, except Secretaries STANTON and BROWNING, who are confined to their residences by illness.

SOUTHERN RELIEF ASSOCIATION.

A third remittance of $4,757 in gold has just been received from California by the Southern Famine Relief Association, JAMES M. BROWN, Esq., Treasurer, making in all to date from the Pacific Coast $45,757 in gold, or over $60,000 in currency. The number of letters received from the South by the Commissioner is very large, and show beyond question that the suffering continues intense, and must increase as the season advances until the time of harvesting.

THE UNION PACIFIC RAILROAD.

The central branch of the Union Pacific Railroad Company, having completed, as a first-class railroad, twenty additional miles of its railroad in Kansas, the same has been accepted, and the President has directed the Secretaries of the Treasury and Interior to issue to the Company the bonds and patents for the lands to which it has become entitled.

PUBLIC SURVEYS IN ARIZONA.

Returns have been received at the General Office showing the survey of a portion of the base line of Gila and Salt River meridian, and the first correction line north in Arizona. The initial point of the surveys in this Territory is at the confluence of the Gila and Rio Salado Rivers, and is identical with the monument established by the Mexican Boundary Commission in 1851, to mark the mouth of the Salado or Salt River at the intersection of 33° 22' 57'' north latitude, south 112° 15' 47'' of longitude west of Greenwich. The monument is being erected on the pinnacle of a conical hill one hundred and fifty feet in height. The further prosecution of the public surveys has been interrupted by Indian hostilities, the surveyor having abandoned the field and applied to the Surveyor-General of New-Mexico to be released from the fulfillment of the contract. Now that Arizona has been detached from New-Mexico and made a part of the California surveying district, further surveys will be conducted under the direction of the Surveyor-General of California, upon the restoration of tranquility in that Territory.

REVENUE TAX ON "SHINPLASTERS."

A circular has been issued from the office of Internal Revenue, concerning the tax of ten per cent. on notes of any town, city or municipal corporation, which is as follows:

"The second section of the act of March 26, 1867, enacts: That every National Banking Association, State Bank or banker, or association, shall pay a tax of ten per centum on the amount of notes of any town or municipal corporation paid out by them after the first day of May, 1867, to be collected in the mode and manner in which the tax on the notes of State Banks is collected."

It is understood that there is a large amount of these notes in circulation, particularly in the Southern States, and the attention of Revenue officers is hereby called to the foregoing section. Assessors will instruct their assistants to make assessments for said tax against any National Banking Association, State Bank, banker or association which shall pay the notes in question after the first day of May, 1867.

THE JAPANESE COMMISSIONERS.

No official ceremonies have yet transpired in connection with the visit of the Japanese Commissioners, but they will to-morrow have an interview with the Secretary of State, when their credentials will be submitted and a time fixed for their formal introduction to the President, which will not be characterized in any manner beyond the usual official proceedings, with which the diplomatic representation of any civilized Government is presented to the President of this Republic. This, it is considered, is not only essential to our own self-respect, but is also more in direct accordance with the proprieties of official conduct between the representatives of foreign Powers and our own nation.

MISCELLANEOUS ITEMS.

The receipts from internal revenue to-day were slightly over $400,500.

There was very little change in the condition of Secretary BROWNING'S health this morning, though his physicians pronounce him out of danger.

The Cabinet session to-day was of short duration, being only one hour in length. All the members were present excepting Secretaries STANTON and BROWNING.

Hon. R. H. HULBURD, Comptroller of the Currency, returned to Washington this morning from New-York, where he has been on a brief visit.

The State-street Frauds—Indictments Against Julius F. Hartwell.

From Our Own Correspondent.

BOSTON, Tuesday, April 30.

On Saturday last, when Messrs. MELLEN, CARTER, WARD, DYER and SMITH, the parties implicated in the recent frauds on State-street, were arraigned in the United States Court and pleaded not guilty to indictments returned by the Grand Jury against them, (as given in my last,) considerable surprise was manifested that JULIUS F. HARTWELL, the Sub-Treasury Clerk, was not indicted. The discussion upon this question ended to-day, when in the U. S. District Court, before Justice LOWELL, HARTWELL was arraigned and pleaded not guilty to two indictments, each containing five counts, which had been returned against him. He was held in $10,000 for trial, the same bonds in which the other parties were held. No day was assigned for the trial, but the United States District-Attorney thinks the trial will come off in about three weeks from date.

The first indictment alleges that JULIUS F. HARTWELL, of Boston, on the 2d day of February, 1867, being then an officer of the United States to wit: a clerk in the office of the Assistant Treasurer of the United States at Boston, did by virtue of said office receive and take into his possession certain money to the amount of $200,000, of which sum $100,000 was in bank bills and $100,000 in Treasury notes, all the property and money of the United States, and did then and there unlawfully, fraudulently and feloniously, convert the same to his own use and embezzle in the Sub-Treasury aforesaid, against the peace and dignity, &c.

A second count alleges that JULIUS F. HARTWELL, of Boston, on the 6th day of February, 1867, at the Sub-Treasury on State-street, being then and there an officer of the United States, charged and intrusted with the safe keeping, transfer and disbursement of public moneys, unlawfully and feloniously did convert to his own use, and embezzle a portion of the said public moneys, to wit: one thousand pieces of American gold coin of the denomination of $20 gold pieces of the value of $28,000, the property of the United States, against the peace, &c.

A third count alleges that JULIUS F. HARTWELL, of Boston, on the 9th day of February, 1867, while in the position mentioned above, did feloniously and unlawfully loan to CHARLES MELLEN, CHARLES L. WARD and EDWARD CARTER, doing business under the style of MELLEN, WARD & Co., a very large amount of public moneys of the value of $400,000, of which $100,000 was in National Bank bills, $100,000 in Treasury notes, and $200,000 in gold coin, the property of the United States, against the peace and dignity, &c.

A fourth count alleges that JULIUS F. HARTWELL, of Boston, on the 28th of February, 1867, in the position mentioned above, did unlawfully and feloniously and for a purpose not prescribed by law, to wit: for the purchasing and selling stocks in certain mining corporations, transfer and apply a portion of the public moneys of the amount and value of $50,000, being at the time of committing the felony aforesaid the property of the United States, against the peace and dignity, &c.

A fifth count alleges that JULIUS F. HARTWELL, of Boston, on the 23d of February, 1867, in the position above mentioned, did unlawfully and feloniously loan a portion of the public moneys intrusted to him for safe keeping, to EDWARD CARTER, of Boston, and to other persons unknown to the jurors, the sum of $100,000, at the time the property of the United States.

The second indictment alleges that JULIUS F. HARTWELL, of Boston, being then and there disbursing officer of the United States, did, by virtue of his office, on the 20th of December, 1866, receive and take into his possession certain moneys to the amount and value of $200,000, in National Bank bills and Treasury notes, of the property and moneys of the United States, and unlawfully, fraudulently and feloniously did convert to his own use, and embezzle in the Sub-Treasury aforesaid.

A second count alleges that JULIUS F. HARTWELL, on the 2d of January, 1867, unlawfully and feloniously did convert to his own use and embezzle 1,000 pieces of American gold coin of the denomination of $20, of the value of $28,000, the property of the United States, &c.

A third count alleges that JULIUS F. HARTWELL, on the 9th day of February, 1867, did unlawfully loan to CHARLES MELLEN, CHARLES L. WARD and EDWARD CARTER $400,000 of the moneys of the United States, intrusted to him for safe keeping, consisting of National bank Bills, Treasury notes and gold coins.

A fourth count alleges that JULIUS F. HARTWELL, on the 28th of February, 1867, did transfer and apply $50,000, the property of the United States, for the purpose of purchasing and selling stocks contrary to the statute.

A fifth count in this indictment alleges that JULIUS F. HARTWELL, on the 23d of February, 1867, did unlawfully loan to EDWARD CARTER and other persons unknown the sum of $100,000, the property of the United States. VIGIL.

A STRANGE DIVORCE.

Personal Explanation from Mr. O. W. Wight.

To the Editor of the Chicago Tribune:

Your paper of the 18th inst. contains an attack on me, copied from an Indiana journal. I have a right to ask space for a reply.

It is painful to be compelled to draw aside the curtain from one's private and domestic life. Friends who have known me long and well, gentlemen and gentlewomen who have met me often in society, those who have traveled with me the mystic journey in the East, the charitable and thoughtful, to whose minds a groundless attack carries in its spirit and contradictions its own refutation, will require of me no vindication of my character; but to them, as well as to the public, I owe an explanation.

Near the end of May, in the year 1851, I was married. I returned from Europe after a lengthy absence, but a few days before my marriage. The death of the young lady's mother (all the rest of her family were dead before my acquaintance with her began) hastened my return. I had been engaged to her several years. The marriage had been put off from time to time on account of her health. She was then twenty-three years of age. I knew that she was afflicted with some nervous disease, which was represented to me by her mother as hysteria. Almost immediately after our marriage we embarked for Europe. The steamer duly landed at Liverpool, and we went directly to the famous "Lake District" of England. About a month after our marriage, she was, one day, at Keswick, stricken down at my feet with a fit of epilepsy. Attack followed attack, until she had seventeen in the course of the night. I stood alone by her bedside, amazed, bewildered, becrushed, turning gray ere the sun rose. Her fearful disease (so fearful, as Dr. WATSON says, that "the beasts of the field flee in terror at the characteristic cry of one seized with it") had been concealed from me. Yet, I am publicly accused of having put away one who was in "good health at the time of her marriage," simply because she had become an invalid on my hands. If her parents had been living I should have taken her home to them, and never should have seen her again in this world. But she was an orphan and alone. She had not been to blame. That terrible night, on bended knees before God Almighty, I adopted her as my child. Never has a word of reproach to her, on account of the concealment, escaped my lips. From that hour to this I have been an affectionate parent to her ("father and mother in one," as she has a thousand times, with gushing tears, expressed it,) and during many of the lonely intervening years I have been sole nurse to her, patiently, uncomplainingly, tenderly performing for her offices that no money could procure.

I wandered over Europe nearly four years, taking my patient and ward to many eminent physicians, hoping against hope that perchance her disease might be cured. It had existed from infancy. Every physician—and to you, my brethren of the regular profession, I appeal as witnesses of the truth of my assertions in regard to the disease—knows how incurable a long-standing case of epilepsy is—how it unfits for the pursuits and active duties of life. Besides, as every educated physiologist understands, it is very likely to be transmitted to offspring. With a knowledge of this fact, none but a brute and godless wretch would incur the responsibility of being the author of those who might inherit this fearful malady.

I returned from Europe and undertook to establish me a home, foolishly endeavoring to conceal the real nature of her disease from my friends, as multitudes will now bear me witness. It was an unmanly pride and a weak yielding to her entreaties, which, like all untruth, has brought its appropriate reward to both. More than twenty women, old and young, were tried as hired nurses, companions or housekeepers. Not one of them would do. Some of them would flee from the room in terror when my patient had an attack. Some would hold up their hands in hopeless bewilderment. Others would sit down and cry with that natural sympathy for suffering which wells up from woman's heart, and for which God be praised.

Besides, as any educated physician will say, the nervous system of a confirmed epileptic is greatly deranged, causing one day dreamy indifference, another day perversity of will, another day tearful despondency, still another day a state verging into insanity, with longer or shorter intervals of naturalness, when company may be seen or a journey taken. There are people living, who, ignorant of her disease, ignorant of Christian charity, have gratuitously attributed these moods to my ill-treatment of her. So, what with her new nurses, refractory servants, and a poor, incapable epileptic (for whom my heart was breaking with sympathy) to get things out of joint, I had a serious time of it housekeeping.

At length, from a respectable family that had known me from my youth, came, half a dozen years ago, a good lady, educated, intelligent, refined, to spend the Summer with us. She at once showed herself capable of taking care of my incurable epileptic patient in an efficient and friendly manner. She won the confidence and sympathy of my poor child, and won my everlasting gratitude. The chaos of the house was reduced to order. The Summer visit was indefinitely prolonged. I plunged into affairs, translating or editing the next two years more than a dozen volumes of "French classics," writing a multitude of Review articles, projecting and publishing, through different book houses, the famous "Riverside" editions of Bacon's Works, the novels of DICKENS, Milman's Latin Christianity, Carlyle's Essays, Macaulay's Miscellanies, Montaigne's Essays, &c., (paying but little attention to domestic matters,) till four out of five publishing firms with which I was doing business went to the wall in the midst of the war.

An efficient friend could not always remain with us. My nominal wife, my epileptic ward, could not bear to part with her "Aunt Kate," as she familiarly and affectionately called her. A recurrence to the old method of housekeeping was an impossibility. Boarding was attended with the same difficulties. Two persons were necessary for the care of an epileptic who could never be left safely alone, except for some hours on particular days. My friends, coming to know the situation, advised an asylum. My heart revolted against that, as it still revolts against it, although I have had, for a long time, an arrangement with a noble friend of mine, the honored head of a New-England asylum, to take her, in case of my death or some imperative necessity.

A new plan was proposed by my patient herself, at first in jest, then in earnest. The nominal tie between us should be severed, and then she might have two instead of one to take care of her. It will be said that no wife could make such a proposition. Verily no wife could. Let it be remembered that she was wife only in name; in reality, adopted child. She had come to regard it as religiously wrong to think of fulfilling the relations of wife in her condition. She ardently desired to be released from the responsibilities of a station she could not fill. When asked by me (with the ulterior object of divorce in view) to assume the place required of her by the external bond of our union, she revolted, declaring she should never live with me again, and remained extremely unhappy till she discovered my true meaning. A simple attestation of this attitude on her part satisfied the letter of the law. There was no witness against her, except in the technical sense of the Courts. The testimony, as seen from the point of view of our real life, was for her, and as she wished it. The truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth, was told by the only one that had the secret of our hearts. That truth satisfied the law's letter, while its just and pure spirit was satisfied by the purity and justice of our aims.

In order, however, to satisfy some scruples of conscience, we made a first attempt to procure a divorce on the naked merits of the case, under that clause in the Indiana law giving to the Judge power to release from the bond of matrimony, when in his opinion it is best for all parties concerned. The cause of our failure is not a matter of public interest. We succeeded elsewhere. Two months after the divorce was procured I married again. The divorced wife stood by our side with her attorney during the ceremony, not to act as bridesmaid, as the attack has it, but to signify her approbation in the strongest manner. The marriage was private in our own rooms. As the clergyman pronounced the last words of the service, she said in a clear, firm tone, "It is all just as I want it." The marriage was solemnized in the presence of a dozen Christian men and women, representatives of some of the best families in the city, who would not have sanctioned a "queer," much less an iniquitous, thing. The clergyman, pastor of one of the leading churches in the place, who performed the ceremony, had lived in rooms adjoining ours all Winter, and knew us well. He would not have married parties compelling (as it is intimated) "this divorced wife to stand beside the woman that was to usurp her place." "The curse and blight of the Almighty" is called down, "to avenge the wrongs of the wretched woman." The wretched woman has not been so happy (till our peaceful domestic circle was invaded by this attack) in a dozen years, as she has been since that hour, when she "stood there like a living corpse."

At the close of the ceremony myself and wife adopted the former wife in the most solemn religious manner, promising to keep her with us, to care for, cherish and support her "as long as she is spared to us," "as we hope for mercy at the judgment seat." That adoption is in the form of a document, signed by us, witnessed by those present at the ceremony, and left in the hands of a distinguished clergyman, open at all times to all right-minded persons for inspection. Before our marriage we signed legal bonds, binding ourselves in heavy penalties to the same effect. These bonds are in the hands of her attorney, where they will remain, and may be seen by properly-intentioned people.

It has been publicly reported that I have squandered for her a large fortune. It is false. She had an income when she was married, thirteen years ago, of $1,660. She now has enough, from property and bonds in her own right and name, to secure her against all contingencies.

As to the foul allusions to the physical uses of marriage, I pass over them in sorrow, not in anger. We here "see through a glass darkly." The medium through which each one beholds things, is colored by the hues of his own soul. The life of the world, as it appears to the vision of each of us, necessarily takes this tint of the observer's spirit. I thank God that I and mine can see, all around us, pure Christian men and women, whose bodies are fit temples for the indwelling of the Holy Ghost.

All these details are painful to me in the extreme, but the wide circulation given by respectable journals to the attack, leaves me no alternative. In Christian charity I have been willing to believe that sympathy for an afflicted, helpless woman, that indignation for her supposed wrongs, were the motives of the writer of that article. Whoever you are that wrote it, I assure you in the blessed spirit of forgiveness that your sympathy seems to its unfortunate object but an impertinent mockery. In her disease, perhaps the heaviest physical calamity of mortal life has been laid upon her; she is surrounded with tried affection in those who have cheerfully suffered and will continue cheerfully to suffer for her sake, and she begs, for the dear Redeemer's sake, to be spared the meddlesomeness of those who are strangers, and necessarily must be strangers, to our inner life.

Thus, with the Maker of heaven and earth looking into my heart, have I written the simple truth in regard to this matter. If the world with exact knowledge of the facts, blames me, I shall bear it meekly, hopefully.

Allow me here, Mr. Editor, to request those journals that have copied the attack to copy also this reply. O. W. WRIGHT.

Murder by a Jealous Husband in Wilmington, Del.

From the Wilmington (Del.) Gazette, April 29.

About 9 o'clock yesterday morning the neighbors were startled by screams emanating from the house of Mr. JOSEPH W. PRATT, on the corner of Seventh and Jefferson streets. Very soon after JOSHUA PUSEY SMITH, the proprietor of the Indian Queen Hotel, of this city, passed out of the house. No one then noticed this, although blood was issuing from wounds on his person and marking the pavement every few steps, as appeared afterward on examination. After walking some distance he sat down on a step and called for assistance. Those who went to him found him bleeding, and asked who stabbed him. He replied "JOE PRATT," and asked to be taken home. The sleeve of his left arm was full of blood, which he had apparently been endeavoring to keep from dropping. They assisted him across the street when he became so faint that they took him back into a shop, and sent for several physicians. SMITH'S wound was on the left arm near the shoulder, the arteries being severed. He died in about half an hour.

About 10 o'clock the officers proceeded to PRATT'S house and took him to the City Hall cells. He made no resistance, but had to be supported by the officers. They then returned to the house and accompanied Mrs. PRATT to the Mayor's office. The circumstances, as we learned them before the inquest was held, were these: There were paper-hangers in the house at work in the second story. One report is that SMITH owned the house, and went there to attend to the repairs that were being made, and Mrs. PRATT is reported to have said that her husband invited him into the third story to talk over some matters, and she, fearful there might be some trouble between them, went up also. After she got there, PRATT stabbed SMITH. In an effort to prevent this, she received a severe cut in one of her fingers. Reports have been in circulation for several years in which SMITH was said to be visiting PRATT'S house in his absence. About two years ago PRATT became interested in an oil company in Virginia, and he returned here two weeks ago. He then had an interview with SMITH, which resulted rather satisfactorily, and PRATT took his wife to Pennsylvania on a visit. After they returned he went to New-York, and came back last Friday night.

SMITH'S body was removed to his house, and a Coroner's jury sworn in about 12 o'clock, which adjourned until 2 P. M. Mr. PRATT is about 50 years of age, and SMITH, we think, was about the same. Mrs. PRATT is about 40. SMITH stood well as a business man and hotel keeper, being active and energetic. He leaves a wife and four or five children. Mr. PRATT is a gentleman of good education, a fluent speaker, and has always been highly respected by those who knew him. It is said that PRATT says he had not slept for five nights, and that Mrs. PRATT had made some acknowledgements yesterday morning, just previous to SMITH'S entering the house. In the interview PRATT asked SMITH "what he would do to a man who had prostituted his wife?" SMITH replied, "I would kill him." It is presumed the knife was then used. It is also said PRATT got information in New-York, at a hotel where SMITH and Mrs. PRATT had put up last Summer, that caused him to take the course he did. The physicians say that SMITH'S life might have been saved had immediate attention been had. At the Coroner's inquest a number of witnesses were examined, and the following verdict was returned:

VERDICT—"J. PUSEY SMITH came to his death from a wound inflicted by a dirk in the hands of JOSEPH W. PRATT."

PEABODY EDUCATIONAL FUND.

A General Agent's Account of the Proposed Plan of Operations.

Mr. JOHN E. AMOS, Associate General Agent of the Peabody Educational Fund for Georgia, publishes the following in the Atlanta papers:

1. The direct aim of the Agent will be to encourage and aid common schools in the South—that is, schools established, supported and superintended by the Southern people themselves. Apart from this leading object, the founding and maintenance of schools will not come within his plan.
2. Usually appropriations in moderate amounts will be made where such schools are languishing, or are liable to be suspended, for want of the means of support. Similar aid, if necessary, will be given in places unsupplied with schools, whenever the citizens shall introduce them, and undertake their support. All such aid, however, is to be regarded as temporary.
3. In selecting schools to be aided, or places to be supplied with them, those will be preferred in which the destitution is greatest, and the number to be benefited largest.
4. Normal schools, or schools having normal departments, will receive particular attention. A small number of these, furnishing the most perfect models of instruction, will be considered as more important than a large number of an inferior character. Here, also, it is the purpose of the agent to aid others in their work, and not to assume the support of such schools.
5. Funds will not be paid in advance. Appropriations will be made only on the fulfilment of the conditions stipulated between the individual or corporation and General Agent.
6. Funds will not be given to literary or to professional schools as such. Special arrangements may sometimes be made with these, for the purpose of encouraging the industrial arts, or for the education of teachers.
7. The agent will not identify his efforts with those of any other organization, by placing funds at the disposal of its managers, but, in any connection he may hold with benevolent or religious societies, he will pursue his own specific object by such means and appliances as he shall select.
8. At present no agencies will be authorized, except a few, in which the services rendered will be gratuitous.
9. The agent will not, except in a few special, exceptional cases, have occasion to employ teachers. He can, therefore, aid such in obtaining places, only by giving their names to School Committees.
10. Applicants will make an estimate of what is actually necessary to meet their wants, and state concisely in what extent aid is desired.
11. Each application must be accompanied with recommendations from responsible persons.
12. Communications which require response by mail must be accompanied with postage. This rule is adopted because a perfect inundation of correspondence has been thrown on my hands by applicants who seem not to have thought of the propriety of forwarding postage.
13. Correspondence with gentlemen giving information as to points where the fund may be properly appropriated, or suggestions that will facilitate its proper disbursement is desired, and will be duly appreciated.

Gens. Grant and Sherman.

Nothing can be more striking or admirable than the cordial friendship which has prevailed between Gens. GRANT and SHERMAN throughout the war. The following correspondence, which occurred over three years ago, though it now comes to light through a recently published volume of the Report of the Committee on the Conduct of the War, is interesting as an illustration of their relations:

[Private.]

NASHVILLE, Tenn., March 4, 1864.

DEAR SHERMAN: The bill reviving the grade of Lieutenant-General in the army has become a law, and my name has been sent to the Senate for the place. I now receive orders to report to Washington immediately in person, which indicates either a confirmation or a likelihood of confirmation. I start in the morning to comply with the order, but I shall say very distinctly on my arrival there that I accept no appointment which will require me to make that city my headquarters. This, however, is not what I started out to write about. While I have been eminently successful in this war in at least the confidence of the public, no one feels more than me how much of this success is due to the energy, skill, and harmonious putting forth of that energy and skill, of those whom it has been my good fortune to have occupy a subordinate position under me. There are many officers to whom these remarks are applicable to a greater or less degree, proportionate to their ability as soldiers. But what I want is to express my thanks to you and McPHERSON, as the men to whom, above all others, I feel indebted for whatever I have had of success. How far your advice and suggestions have been of assistance, you know. How far your execution of whatever has been given you to do entitles you to the reward I am receiving, you cannot know as well as me. I feel all the gratitude this letter would express, giving it the most flattering construction. The word "you" I use in the plural, intending it for McPHERSON also. I should write to him, and will some day; but, starting in the morning, I do not know that I will find time just now. Your friend,

U. S. GRANT, Major-General.

Private and confidential.

NEAR MEMPHIS, March 10, 1864.

DEAR GENERAL: I have your more than kind and characteristic letter of the 4th. I will send a copy to Gen. McPHERSON at once. You do yourself injustice, and us too much honor, in assigning to us so large a share of the merits which have led to your high advancement. I know you approve the friendship I have ever confessed to you, and will permit me to continue, as heretofore, to manifest it on all proper occasions. You are now WASHINGTON'S legitimate successor, and occupy a place of almost dangerous elevation. But if you continue, as heretofore, to be yourself—simple, honest and unpretending—you will enjoy through life the respect and love of friends and the homage of millions of human beings that will award you a larger share in securing to them and their descendants a Government of law and stability. I repeat, you do Gen. McPHERSON and myself too much honor. At Belmont you manifested your traits, neither of us being near. At Fort Donelson, also, you illustrated your whole character. I was not near and Gen. McPHERSON in too subordinate a capacity to influence you. Until you had won Donelson I confess I was almost cowed by the terrible array of anarchial elements that presented themselves at every point; but that admitted the ray of light which I have followed since. I believe you are as brave, patriotic and just as the great prototype, WASHINGTON; as unselfish, kind-hearted and honest, as a man should be; but your chief characteristic is the simple faith in success you have always manifested, which I can liken to nothing else than the faith a Christian has in a Saviour. This faith gave you victory at Shiloh and Vicksburg. Also, when you have completed your best preparations you go into battle without hesitation, as at Chattanooga—no doubts, no reserves; and I tell you it was this that made us act with confidence. I knew, wherever I was, that you thought of me, and if I got in a tight place, you would come if alive. My only points of doubt were in your knowledge of grand strategy and of books of science and history; but I confess your common sense seems to have supplied all these. Now, as to the future. Don't stay in Washington. HALLECK is better qualified than you to stand the buffets of intrigue and policy. Come West. Take to yourself the whole Mississippi valley. Let us make it dead sure and I tell you the Atlantic slopes and Pacific shores will follow its destiny as sure as the limbs of a tree live or die with the main trunk. We have done much, but still much remains. Time and Time's influence are with us. We could almost afford to sit still and let these influences work. Even in the seceded States your word now would go further than a President's proclamation or an act of Congress. For God's sake and your country's sake, come out of Washington. I foretold to Gen. HALLECK, before he left Corinth, the inevitable result; and I now exhort you to come out West. Here lies the seat of the coming empire; and from the West, when our task is done, we will make short work of Charleston and Richmond and the impoverished coast of the Atlantic.

Your sincere friend, W. T. SHERMAN.

Gen. GRANT.

Rev. JAMES EELS, D. D., was installed as pastor of the Stockton-street Presbyterian Church in San Francisco on the evening of March 28. The sermon was preached by Rev. Dr. WADSWORTH; the charge to the pastor given by Rev. F. BUEL, and the charge to the congregation by Rev. J. J. FACKLER. The Times says a large congregation took part in the impressive ceremonies, and after the conclusion joined hands with their new pastor, congratulating him in view of the happy auspices attending the formation of the relationship established between them, and expressing their hope that his ministry in his new and responsible charge would be crowned with the best results to the Church.

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

MAY-DAY AND OTHER PIECES. By RALPH WALDO EMERSON. Boston: TICKNOR & FIELDS.

EMERSON is not likely to become a popular poet, in the sense that LOWELL, WHITTIER and LONGFELLOW are popular; yet much of the verse that he has written will be enjoyed by a large class of readers as long as the English language endures. Through all his poetry flows an undercurrent of thought and suggestion, frequently not apparent on a careless perusal, and the quaint and mystical style of many of his poems is not acceptable to the majority of readers. Some of his poems require an extensive knowledge of Eastern philosophy to be understood, while others are as clear in style and as appreciable in thought as the poems of WORDSWORTH. Such are his beautiful poem on the "Humble-Bee," his "Romany Girl," "The Two Rivers," "Waldeinsamkeit," "May-Day," "The Adirondacks," the "Song of Nature," "My Garden," with many others. Indeed, the mysticism of EMERSON's poetry is often more apparent than real. Even "Brahma," which has been more frequently parodied than any other poem ever published in America, is not unintelligible to one who is even superficially acquainted with the religious philosophy of the East.

The longest poem in the present collection is entitled "May-Day," from which we gave a fine passage in the TIMES of April 21. It breathes throughout the freshness and the beauty of Spring, and overflows with poetic thought and imaginative sympathy with the breaking of the "marble sleep" of Winter, and the change that passes on all things at the approach of the fairest season of the year. What a graphic piece of description is this:

Lo! how all the tribes combine
To rout the flying foe.
See, every patriot oak-leaf throws
His elfin length upon the snows;
Not idle, since the leaf all day
Draws to the spot the solar ray,
Ere sunset quarrying inches down,
And half-way to the mosses brown;
While the grass beneath the rime
Has hints of the propitious time,
And upward pries and perforates
Through the cold slab a thousand gates,
Till green lances peering through
Bend happy in the welkin blue.

April cold with dropping rain
Willows and lilacs brings again,
The whistle of returning birds,
And trumpet-lowing of the herds.
The scarlet maple-keys betray
What potent blood hath modest May;
What fiery force the earth renews,
The wealth of forms, the flush of hues;
Joy shed in rosy waves abroad
Flows from the heart of Love, the Lord.

The northward procession of the Spring is thus vividly described:

I saw the bud-crowned Spring go forth,
Stepping daily onward north
To greet staid ancient cavaliers
Filing single in stately train.
And who, and who are the travelers!
They were Night and Day, and Day and Night,
Pilgrims wight with step forthright.
I saw the Days deformed and low,
Short and bent by cold and snow;
The merry Spring threw wreaths on them,
Flower-wreaths gay with bud and bell;
Many a flower and many a gem,
They were refreshed by the smell,
They shook the snow from hats and shoon,
They put their April raiment on;
And those eternal forms,
Unhurt by a thousand storms,
Shot up to the height of the sky again,
And danced as merrily as young men.
I saw them mask their awful glance
Sidewise meek in gossamer lids;
And to speak my thought if none forbids,
It was as if the eternal gods,
Tired of their starry periods,
Hid their majesty in cloth
Woven of tulips and painted moth.
On carpets green the maskers march
Below May's well-appointed arch,
Each star, each god, each grace amain,
Every joy and virtue speed,
Marching duly in her train,
And fainting Nature at her need
Is made whole again.

We give space to one extract more, the closing passage of the poem:

For thou, O Spring! canst renovate
All that high God did first create.
Be still his arm and architect,
Rebuild the ruin, mend defect;
Chemist to vamp old worlds with new,
Coat sea and sky with heavenlier blue,
New-tint the plumage of the birds,
And slough decay from grazing herds,
Sweep ruins from the scarped mountain,
Cleanse the torrent at the fountain,
Purge alpine air by towns defiled,
Bring to fair mother fairer child,
Not less renew the heart and brain,
Scatter the sloth, wash out the stain,
Make the aged eye sun-clear,
To parting soul bring grandeur near.
Under gentle types, my Spring
Masks the might of Nature's king,
An energy that searches thorough
From Chaos to the dawning morrow
Into all our human plight,
The soul's pilgrimage and flight;
In city or in solitude,
Step by step, lifts bad to good,
Without halting, without rest,
Lifting Better up to Best;
Planting seeds of knowledge pure,
Through earth to ripen, through heaven endure.

Beside "May-Day," the volume contains a descriptive poem entitled "The Adirondacks," a large number of occasional and miscellaneous pieces, "Quatrains," and translations. Among the shorter poems those classed under the head of "Elements" will give least pleasure to readers in general.

HOW TO MAKE MONEY AND HOW TO KEEP IT. By THOMAS A. DAVIES. New-York: G. W. CARLETON & CO.

FRANKLIN used to say that a man is "seldom more innocently employed than in making money." Mr. DAVIES goes farther and avers that to make money is a duty. If so (and we agree with him in so far that it is one's duty to keep out of the Poorhouse) it is assuredly of all duties the one least likely to be neglected; for, somehow, to put money in one's purse seems to be the aim of all our passionate striving and mad endeavors in this weary world of ours. Certainly, if the preacher of this evangel of lucre can only get people to believe that he can really let them into the secret of "How to Make Money," he will not only have written the most successful of books, but he will have all men and women rising up and calling him blessed. The only fear is that, as the philosopher's stone has not yet been discovered, Mr. DAVIES' readers may have some misgivings as to his ability to lead them on to fortune.

It is a commendable quality in Mr. DAVIES' book, and one which relieves it of all air of quackery, that it puts forth no pretence of disclosing the philosopher's stone, or showing new and short cuts to wealth. Its precepts are just the old and proven ones preached by Solomon and enforced with such unction by BEN. FRANKLIN. It shows that money-making follows the observance of such time-honored virtues as thrift and industry and skill and good husbandry; and if there be any wight witless enough to fancy that it can be made in any other way, he had better read this book and find out at once that sunbeams can't be extracted from cucumbers. But if the text is an ancient one, the author has nevertheless contrived to give it some new and pertinent illustrations. The saws are the saws of "Poor Richard," but they are pointed with many a modern instance; and it was worth while to do this, for happily our economies of life are larger and more liberal than were they at the time when that pithy apostle of thrift expounded his practical philosophy to the people of Pennsylvania and New-England. Mr. DAVIES is far from recommending penuriousness or meanness; on the contrary, he shows it will prevent one's making the most money with his opportunities. "A just and proper economy," he sensibly observes, "is the true line, and this any one can determine for himself." Nevertheless he urges that the first great aim in life should be to make oneself independent, and an independence he defines as "such an amount of money, safely invested, as will produce an income equal to the necessities of life; in other words, to be able to live without labor." In actual figures, he thinks that the interest of $5,000, invested at six per cent., would accomplish this object for each individual, with the proviso, however, that if he has others dependent upon him for support who cannot earn themselves, he must have as many independences as there are individuals to support. How this competence and basis of fortune may be realized is set forth in a series of very pointed and forcible illustrations of the astonishing results that arise from small earnings properly cared for, and the wonderful increment that even the most trifling sums acquire when improved at compound interest. It would not, perhaps, be difficult to point out that while this principle is true in theory, there are causes that prevent its being made applicable to the full extent in practice; and we will frankly confess that though we keenly appreciate that had some prudent ancestor of ours, in the time of JULIUS CÆSAR, invested an obolus for us at compound interest, we should now be, as Dr. JOHNSON puts it, "rich beyond the dreams of avarice." Yet we hardly feel sufficient interest in our future descendant that shall be, a thousand years hence, to put the doctrine into practice. Nevertheless, the principle is certainly true enough to make it worth considering.

In proceeding to the practical illustration of how an independence may be secured and how from such foundation a fortune may be built up the author enters into a detailed examination of all the activities in which the energies of man are employed in the creation of wealth. He exhibits the principles of money-making in the case of the apprentice, the craftsman and the clerk, the farmer, the merchant and the manufacturer, the banker, the speculator and the professional man. Of course the fundamental maxims that lead to success in all these various walks of life are the same; but Mr. DAVIES displays great ingenuity, skill and shrewdness in setting them forth in their several applications. What best pleases us in this book is its high and wholesome tone. In these days of loose commercial morality, when the vulgar maxim of trade is that one man's success is another's ruin, it is something to find a book on money-making insisting on probity, fair-dealing and honor as the prime necessities for the conduct of business. We cannot conceive of a young man who would not be benefited by its perusal.

THE DIVINE COMEDY OF DANTE ALIGHIERI. Translated by HENRY WADSWORTH LONGFELLOW. Vol. I. Boston: TICKNOR & FIELDS.

This superb volume, which is in every respect of paper, type and workmanship worthy of the house whose imprint it bears, contains the translation of the Inferno for which American readers have been looking with such great interest. We shall not at present discuss at length its merits as a reproduction of the great Italian poem. It is a work on which Mr. LONGFELLOW, an acknowledged master of style and expression, has expended the study and labor of years. In the accomplishment of this task he has enjoyed the advice and cooperation of LOWELL, NORTON, and other eminent scholars, to whom he has been accustomed to read his translation as the work progressed; and though of course it does not afford an entirely adequate idea of the original, it may safely be said that in general accuracy and in poetic style it is superior to any other version that has appeared.

The volume is provided with an excellent index, with copious notes, and with illustrative passages from the writings of cotemporary and of modern authors.

MISCELLANEOUS.

—Rev. Dr. W. G. T. SHEDD, at present Baldwin Professor in the Union Theological Seminary, deservedly enjoys a wide reputation for thorough scholarship and practical ability, not only among his professional brethren, but with the laity as well, and any volume bearing his name as its author is sure to receive a cordial welcome. His latest work, which is entitled Homiletics and Pastoral Theology, has just been published by Messrs. CHARLES SCRIBNER & Co., and contains a series of lectures delivered in the years 1852 and 1853, when Dr. SHEDD was Professor of Sacred Rhetoric and Pastoral Theology in Auburn Theological Seminary, together with several essays which have been published since that time in the American Theological Review and elsewhere. The range of subjects discussed is very comprehensive, embracing all the topics which would naturally be treated in a work of this character. In the department of "Homiletics," for instance, Dr. SHEDD writes of the "Relation of Sacred Eloquence to Biblical Exegesis;" the "fundamental properties of style;" "maxims for sermonizing;" "nature and choice of a text;" the "plan of a sermon;" "extemporaneous preaching," &c., &c. Under the head of "Pastoral Theology" there are six chapters in all, and these give hints regarding "Pastoral visiting," "Catechising," &c. Dr. SHEDD's style is vigorous, direct and earnest, and there is far more of practical suggestion than there is of abstract discussion in the volume. The points at which the Doctor aims are, moreover, sustained by illustrations and incidents which do much to enliven the work, and to make its perusal a pleasure. Although it is mainly designed for clergymen, there is very much in the volume which applies with equal force to all professional men who are called upon to address the public. Laymen who may be curious to know whether the sermons preached by their favorite clergymen are rightly modeled, and whether they perform their duties as pastors so as to meet the requirements of their high office may receive this work as standard authority. The volume is printed in type so large and clear that reading it is a luxury.

—It is certainly strange that some of the professional writers who are so keenly watching for subjects which may be exploited with profit to themselves, and interest to the public, had not long ago placed upon record the early history of California, and the facts regarding the discovery of gold there. One or two works devoted to this subject, have, indeed, been written, but their circulation has been confined almost entirely to the Pacific coast, and, with a single exception, they have been fragmentary in their character, and entirely unworthy of the subject. A brochure by Mr. EDWARD E. DUNBAR, just published by D. APPLETON & Co., and entitled The Romance of the Age; or, The Discovery of Gold in California, suggests what remains to be done in this field. The steamer Crescent City left this port Dec. 23, 1848, to take the first victims of the "gold fever" to Chagres, en route to California, and Mr. DUNBAR was one of her one hundred and fifty passengers. In this little volume he tells of the hardships which he endured, and of the dangers he escaped in crossing the Isthmus, and of the eventful voyage of the steamer California from Panama to San Francisco. He also sketches the history of Capt. SUTTER at length, and that of JAMES W. MARSHALL more briefly. Mr. MARSHALL made the first actual discovery of gold upon Capt. SUTTER's property, and it is a most curious fact that both of these gentleman, instead of being profited by what was apparently their good fortune, were eventually stripped of all their property in consequence of it. Indeed, Capt. SUTTER, Mr. DUNBAR tells us, "is absolutely a wanderer on the face of the earth without a home or resting place," while MARSHALL lives on a little farm near Coloma, Cal., and devotes himself to the "culture of the finer quality of grapes." Mr. DUNBAR's narrative is for the most part written in a direct and unpretending style, and although the story lacks symmetry it preserves in permanent form very many facts and incidents which will prove of material value to the future historian of California and the gold discoveries. The book is very prettily printed and contains a number of illustrations.

—In a handsomely printed and tastefully bound little volume, called the Jumping Frog, which is the initial venture of Mr. C. H. WEBB as a publisher, "Mark Twain" presents himself as a candidate for the honors of a humorist. "Mark Twain" is, we believe, the nom de plume of Mr. SAMUEL CLEMENTS, who, although a Missourian by birth, has for the last year had his residence in California. There his contributions to the weekly journals secured him a wide popularity, and this volume serves to introduce him to the lovers of humor in the Atlantic States. The sketch from which the book takes its name was first published several years ago, and at that time was widely circulated through the newspapers. It is a fair specimen of the whimsical fancies in which the book abounds, and, although there are other sketches nearly equal to it in merit, it is appropriately assigned the leading place because it has done more than any other single paper to secure for the writer whatever reputation he may have. "Mark Twain" differs from other recent writers of his class in not resorting to the adventitious aid of bad spelling to make his jokes seem more absurd, and this is, of course, decidedly in his favor. There is a great deal of quaint humor and much pithy wisdom in his writings, and their own merit, as well as the attractive style in which they are produced, must secure them a popularity which will bring its own profit. The American News Company are the agents for the publisher, and he is, by the way, also editor of the volume.

—The Forlorn Hope, by Mr. EDMUND YATES, published by LORING, of Boston, bears all the marks of care and elaboration which secured popularity for the earlier works of the author named. The story is of a clever physician, who in marrying, forgot that professional ambition was not all that was needed to make home happy. His wife was devoted to him, he devoted to his calling. He is by no means insensible to beauty, however, for he falls in love with a beautiful girl, the daughter of a Highland Laird, and she with him. The wife being of a morbidly jealous disposition, instinctively recognizes the new complication, and in an access of jealousy commits suicide, in such a way that her husband alone discovers the manner of her death. The liberation of the husband brings him no nearer to the formation of a new tie, for MADELEINE is by her mother's means married to another, and only on her death bed, a few years after, does she hear the story of the Doctor's love, and confess her own for him. There is nothing very original in all this, but the characters are skillfully drawn and move naturally—not as if they were brought upon the stage to go through with their respective parts for the benefit of the public. The work, like all of Mr. YATES' productions, is entertaining but not at all profound.

—HILTON & Co. have just published a work by Mr. HENRY MORFORD, entitled Over Sea; or England, France and Scotland as Seen by an American. In a brief preface the author declares that his purpose in this attempt at book-making was "to meet the wishes of some of the many thousands of Americans who intend to visit the great Paris Exposition of the present year, and to aid their steps in finding the most desirable objects and acquiring the greatest amount of information at the least expense of time and money." It is fortunate for Mr. MORFORD that his book is not exclusively adapted to the class for which he acknowledges that he mainly wrote, since the "many thousands" to whom he refers seem much more inclined to stay at home than they do to visit the Exposition, and the Atlantic Telegraph, with its "rumors of wars," is only confirming them in their intention. Across the Sea is a lively, rattling narrative of a visit to London and Paris, and of three days in Scotland, with a run across the border. While the book contains many valuable hints to those who expect to make the excursion themselves, those who mean to stay at home will find it sufficiently interesting to repay perusal.

—Mr. BAYARD TAYLOR has edited, and LEYPOLDT & HOLT publish the first American edition of FRITHIOF's Saga, from the Swedish of ESAIAS TEGNER. Mr. TAYLOR contributes a very interesting account of the author and the work. TEGNER's life in itself was a continuous romance, and his fame in his own country, and indeed throughout Europe as a poet, is deservedly high. He was deeply learned in the folk lore and ancient sagas and traditions of the North, and readily infused the old Viking spirit into the smooth-flowing metres of modern verse. Frithiof has been several times translated, and Mr. TAYLOR chooses the version of Rev. W. L. BLACKLEY, as in his judgment the best yet made. We differ with this view, deeming the translation of GEORGE STEPHENS (London, 1839,) not only the most accurate rendering of the original, but as also more truly poetical and particularly admirable for preserving the ancient spirit belonging to the original story. However, Mr. TAYLOR's own portion—the life and notes—makes this edition exceedingly valuable, and the translation itself is satisfactory in most respects. The book is very handsomely printed.

—The author of Astray, Mattie and one or two other stories which have enjoyed a wider popularity in England than here, has just produced a novel bearing the title of Christie's Faith, which Messrs. HARPER & BROTHERS have reprinted. The story has for its basis the strange contrasts of English city life, the existence side by side of classes destined for poverty and crime or wealth and luxury. Generally we find the actors in stories of this character sinking from bad to worse; here two wretched boys whose miseries would have seemed to make their case hopeless are gradually transformed, one into a wealthy business man and the other into a clever, sternly honorable and clear-headed workman. The story of this change and of its results is carefully told and with much power. There are also brought forward in the course of it several subordinate characters whose history as it is drawn out will be traced with interest. The book is well worth reading for its truthfulness and general interest as well as for the reflections which it is sure to suggest.

—A series of lectures delivered some time since before the Lowell Institute by Prof. CHADBOURNE, of Williams College, have been collected and published in a handsomely printed volume by Messrs. G. P. PUTNAM & SON. The book bears the title, Lectures on Natural Theology; or Nature and the Bible from the same Author. Prof. CHADBOURNE, in a prefatory note, acknowledges that the method which he has followed is in many respects similar to that of PALEY and NIEUWENTYT, who, in their turn, derived their ideas from some source which it would now be impossible to identify. He also declares his want of sympathy with COMPTE and his followers, who regard all inquiries respecting efficient and final causes as unphilosophical and useless. The lectures, which are twelve in number, are popular in style and eloquent in expression, and these qualities, with the thorough knowledge they display of the subjects discussed, must secure for them a wide circulation.

—Messrs. T. B. PETERSON & BROTHER have devoted themselves so assiduously to the production of light literature that it is worth while to note the fact when they venture upon enterprises of another character. They have just issued a work on Architectural Designs for Model Country Residences, by Mr. JOHN RIDDELL, an architect and a Philadelphian. The volume is a large quarto, and it is illustrated by twenty-two colored designs, giving the front elevation of the proposed residences. Plans of the ground and second floors of the dwellings are also given, and these are accompanied with full and accurate specifications, which present a sufficiently definite idea of the cost of the respective structures. The work will prove a suggestive one to professional architects, and it will be found specially valuable by those who expect to build for themselves.

—Messrs. HURD & HOUGHTON have just issued Nicholas Nickleby as the initial volume in their "Globe Edition" of DICKENS' works. The book is naturally somewhat bulky, for it contains the four volumes of the beautiful and popular, although somewhat expensive, "Household Edition," comprising in all more than twelve hundred pages. But the type is large, and the work may be read by those who are nervous about their eyesight without any conscientious scruples. It is illustrated with the four steel engravings, after the admirable designs by DARLEY, which originally accompanied the Household edition of Nicholas Nickleby, and these, with the handsome typography and marvelous cheapness of this Globe edition, must secure it a wide popularity.

—Messrs. ORANGE JUDD & Co. have added to their valuable series of horticultural works one upon apples, by the veteran pomologist, Dr. WARDER, of Ohio. It is an exhaustive treatise, and discusses propagation, nursery culture, the selection and planting of trees, care of fruit, methods of destroying insects, &c., &c., while nearly one-half of the 750 pages which comprise the book is devoted to technical descriptions of apples. These are classified in such a way, according to their forms and otherwise, that it is a comparatively easy task to refer to any variety which it may be necessary to find. The book is handsomely printed upon superior paper, and it is profusely illustrated.

DOMESTIC ITEMS.

The Newburgh Journal says a meeting of the stockholders of the First National Bank of Newburgh was held last week to consider its condition as connected with the defalcation of J. HASBROUCK, its late cashier, and to adopt such measures as the interest of the institution demanded. From a statement by the new cashier it appeared that the ultimate deficiency in the capital after collecting all that is expected from the assets and sureties of HASBROUCK, would be from $16,000 to $30,000. The larger amount embraces an unexplained discrepancy in the books, a favorable solution of which will reduce the deficiency to about the lower figure. The President was very hopeful of the latter result, the cashier less so. The exhibit on the whole, was considered as more favorable than was anticipated, and a resolution was unanimously adopted, authorizing the directors to assess their stock twelve and one-half per cent. in order to make up the capital to its original amount.

An ingenious attempt to defraud the Government has just been made in Boston. A liquor-dealer applied at the Custom-house to export 205 barrels of alcohol. Before receiving the drawback money of $2 per gallon allowed for the revenue tax paid upon it, he was required to give bonds. This he did, and a Government officer examined and gauged the barrels, pronounced them all right and affixed the proper Government seal or stamp. Immediately after the official left, barrels of water were substituted for the alcohol, the stamp being imitated, and these were placed on board a schooner. Just before the vessel sailed the operation was discovered, and the liquor-dealer failed to get his drawback money, amounting to some $17,000.

The New-Albany (Ind.) Ledger says that on the 16th inst. eight or ten ruffians, armed with clubs, went under cover of darkness to the house of a peaceful and law-abiding citizen of Little York, in Washington County, in that State, broke open the door, dragged him from bed, took him outside and tied him to a neighboring tree, and then in the presence of his wife and children, and notwithstanding their tearful entreaties, beat him over the head, face and body until they supposed him dead, when they went off through the woods, yelling like so many mad devils. The leader of the gang and his confederates have been arrested.

The records of the War Department show that there are now confined at the Dry Tortugas fifty prisoners, of whom nine are citizens and forty-one soldiers. The citizens are MUDD, SPANGLER, ARNOLD and O'LAUGHLIN—the assassination conspirators; Col. ST. LEGER GRENFEL, sentenced to life-long hard labor for conspiring to release prisoners of war; JOHN W. ADAIR, a South Carolinian, sentenced for five years for robbery; JOHN WALTERS, ten years for manslaughter; JAMES KELLEY, for life, for murder; and SAM. HENRY, three years, for assault with intent to kill. Of the soldiers, eighteen were sentenced for desertion, seven for assault with intent to kill, and six for robbery.

The Milwaukee (Wis.) Sentinel of the 22d says: "The greater portion of the Spring wheat to be sown, except in the northern counties, is already in the ground. The past week has been extremely favorable for seeding, and the dry, mild days have been eagerly improved by the farmers, who, stimulated by the present enormous prices, are anxious to get in as large a crop as possible, and that as soon as possible. The number of acres sown in Wisconsin this year will be at least thirty per cent. greater than last year."

A member of the Literary Association of Macon, Ga., recently delivered an address before the society on the "Genius of Misfortune." It is published by request. It closes thus: "The soft rays of a June moon or the mild beams of its starry attendants tranquilly reposing upon the placid bosom of a silvery lake, or playing hide and seek upon the dimpled stream, wandering quietly to its ocean home—is lovely. But the wild glare of the lightning leaping madly from its cloud-retreat and flashing ghastly over the storm-lashed wave—is grand."

The cheap railroad fares between Boston and Portsmouth are complained of by the Eastern shopkeepers, as an encouragement to purchasers to go to Boston to buy goods. The Portsmouth Journal offsets this complaint by saying that some Boston ladies take advantage of the cheap fares to go to Portsmouth and buy some articles at about two-thirds Boston prices; and that Massachusetts men come to Portsmouth for "something to take," which they can't conveniently get at home, but which is very plenty in New-Hampshire.

The engineer of a saw-mill in Minnesota, which was burned a few nights since, was awakened about midnight by the roaring of the flames, and discovered that his retreat was cut off by the fire. His only hope of life was to run some ten or twelve feet through the burning mass. He wrapped a blanket round his head, and protected the other parts of his body as well as he was able, and started, but, blinded by the smoke and flames, he fell amid the burning timbers three times before he escaped from his cruel prison.

By a State law, a peddler in Wisconsin must pay $10 for a license if he travels on foot, $30 if he travels with one horse, $40 if he travels with two horses, and $50 if he travels with more than two horses. A fine of $25 and imprisonment not to exceed three months are made the penalty of evading the law, and the goods exposed for sale are liable to seizure to satisfy the fine and costs. A State agent has been appointed, whose duty it is to see that this law is enforced.

At the time of the recent destructive fire in Petroleum Centre, Pa., there was no lack of willing hands, but the only fire-engine in town was without hose, the supply of water at hand was wholly inadequate and the flimsy character of the buildings offered no resistance to the rapid progress of the flames. Consequently nearly two acres of the central part of the town were burnt over, covering both sides of the principal street.

By a change in the assessment law, the collection of the city tax in St. Louis is postponed from June until November, and the city officers have been compelled to obtain from the National Bank of the State of Missouri $600,000 until December next, in such sums as the city may require, at the current rates at the time each sum is checked out; not exceeding six per cent. The city agrees to make the bank named the depository of its bonds and the agent for the sale of its bonds.

Three families in Chicago were much startled one morning recently at the disappearance each of a son, the only words of farewell being letters found in their room saying they had taken their departure for the Rocky Mountains. The boys were each about 14 years old. Subsequently one of them returned, saying he had only gone a short distance to see his comrades off. Messengers were sent after the others, who were still pushing on.

The Charleston (S. C.) Courier states that "Uncle" JOHN HANKS, of Macon County, who at an early day, in that county, helped Mr. LINCOLN split rails and build the cabin which, since the latter's death, he purchased and exhibited, has made arrangements to take it to Paris, to exhibit it at the great Exposition. The cabin has been in Philadelphia since the Fall of 1865.

Thirty-five years ago a woman, whose husband had died in Albany, removed to Boston. Now, at the age of 82 years, poor and friendless, she has been sent back to Albany by the Boston officials, against her earnest remonstrances, because she had become a public charge. She will return to Boston.

Six thousand dogs have been killed in Chicago since the dog-war commenced, and the number is daily increased. It is said the dogs now flee so quickly on seeing a policeman that the officers are compelled to wear citizens' suits in order to come within striking distance.

It is said to be no uncommon thing this season to see white women planting and hoeing in the fields of Upper Georgia, where an unusual area is being planted in corn.

A new hotel, near Boar's Head, at Hampton Beach, N. H., was burned by an incendiary on the night of the 24th inst. The loss was $5,000; insured for $2,000.

Excitement and Riot in Quincy, Ill., over an Anti-Roman Catholic Lecture.

The Quincy (Ill.) Herald of April 25 gives the following account of a disturbance in that place, to which we have already briefly alluded:

"A course of lectures against the doctrines and alleged evil tendencies of the Roman Catholic Church was commenced in this city on Sunday last, by Rev. J. G. WHITE, of Jacksonville. The first lecture was delivered at one of the churches, on the doctrine of Transubstantiation, and excited no unusual comment. On Monday the city was posted to the effect that he would deliver other lectures at the City Hall, commencing that night, in which it was stated that it would be shown "that the Roman Catholic Church, aided by foreign Powers, is laboring to destroy the Government of the United States, civil liberty and the Protestant religion." Startling facts were promised, and the attendance of ladies and gentlemen of every denomination was invited, except to the third, which, it was advertised, would show up facts connected with the doctrine and practice of auricular confession not suitable for ladies to hear;

These posters attracted the desired attention and a very large audience was drawn to the City Hall on Monday night, among whom were many Catholics, who excited by the remarks of the speaker, very frequently interrupted him, though he managed to get through with his discourse. On Tuesday night, however, there was an immense assemblage of people, the larger portion of whom were of the denounced religion, who, by hissing, shouting, hurrahing, and other violent demonstrations of disorder, interrupted the delivery of the lecture and finally compelled the abandonment of the attempt. At the close of the lecture, brickbats and stones were thrown into the windows from the street outside, where an excited multitude had gathered, some of whom indulged in threats of violence whenever the lecturer should make his appearance. Many gentlemen remained behind to protect him from the Hall to his quarters at the Adams House which he reached without any opposition or interruption. It is but justice to state that many Catholics who were present at the meeting earnestly sought to keep order and to secure an uninterrupted hearing for the lecturer. The effect of these proceedings was very naturally to create a sympathy for the lecturer among the Protestant element and to excite it against the Catholics, and as a spirit was aroused, which bid fair to lead to more exciting and riotous scenes, if the delivery of the lecture last night was attempted, Mayor PITMAN, upon consultation with many leading gentlemen, thought it advisable to have its delivery postponed for a time, and therefore gave orders to the City Marshal to close the hall last night.

A largely attended public meeting was held last night in the open air on Sixth-street, near the City Hall, of which Gen. M. BANE was appointed Chairman. The meeting having been called to order, on motion a Committee was appointed to wait on Mayor PITMAN to seek to induce him to rescind his order relative to the closing of City Hall, which subsequently reported to the effect that the Mayor considered it would not be advisable, in view of the excitement in the city, to open the hall for the present. Speeches were delivered by Gen. BANE, Gen. PRENTISS, Rev. Mr. ANDRUS and Dr. S. M. SATURGIS, advocating the right of free speech in its broadest and fullest sense. Among the resolutions offered was one authorizing the Chairman to appoint a Committee of twelve gentlemen of this city to proceed to Springfield at once and prevail upon the Governor to take initiatory steps toward the appointment of a Metropolitan Police for the city of Quincy. A number of votes were cast in the negative on the proposition, and we were unable to learn whether it had been carried or not. The meeting finally adjourned to reassemble to-night (where, we could not ascertain,) to hear Rev. Mr. WHITE deliver his lecture.

The Strike of the Carpenters.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

In your paper of the 28th inst., under the head of "The Trades," you state that the strike of the carpenters "has been a success." Now, Sir, I have as good means of knowing the true state of the case as any one, and I know that more than three-fourths of the men are at work at the old wages, while a very few are receiving an increase on small jobs, that are to be finished by the first week in May. The balance are foolishly striking the streets.

Many jobs have been indefinitely postponed, until both the wages and cost of materials for building are lower, or at least until such time as there is no probability of a strike occurring during its progress. So that not only has the strike of the carpenters not been a success, but it has inflicted an injury on the mass of journeymen which cannot be remedied.

In this country, thank the Lord, we are all working men, from the President, up or down, and there is no law or custom which prevents any man from attaining any position he is qualified to fill.

The boss carpenters are in favor of the journeymen receiving all the pay possible, and there has been no organization to crush the journeymen. When the demand for wages prevents building then it is an unwise demand, and if the men strike and go idle they injure themselves and families more than any one else, and this has always been the case. At the meeting of journeymen some of the speakers appear to inflame the minds of their hearers against "capitalists," and to look at the bosses as enemies. These speakers are, many of them Englishmen, who bring their customs and prejudices with them; they are the "Eli Moores" of this generation, and he you will remember succeeded in riding into a fat office, and then bade "good-by" to the workingmen.

The journeyman who saves a few dollars and deposits it in a savings bank or buys a lot in the upper part of the City, (as many of them to my certain knowledge have done,) would not do it if he supposed that in a short time thereafter he would lose a part of his investment. "He is a capitalist."

To show you that the boss carpenters have no desire to do anything to the injury of the journeymen, I will state that there is a project (which does credit to the head and heart of the mover, Mr. D. HENNESSY,) to raise a fund for the founding of an institution for the benefit of aged carpenters, journeymen and bosses, and for other purposes beneficial to the trade. This, I have no doubt, will be carried out when the flurry of the late strike is over.

ADMISSIONS TO THE BAR.

SUPREME COURT—GENERAL TERM—APRIL 30.

Present, Presiding Judge Leonard, and Justices Clerke, Sutherland and Ingraham.

At the opening of this Court yesterday morning, the room was crowded with members of the Bar, and about sixty young gentlemen, who, having been very thoroughly examined by the Committee appointed to inquire into their knowledge of the law and the practice thereof, as conducted in this State, and who, having been examined by the Committee on Character, and having been favorably reported on by both of these Committees, appeared for the purpose of signing the roll and taking the oath of office in open Court, as is required by the Constitution. Not more than fifteen of the applicants have been rejected, which circumstance is rather remarkable, considering the large number in the class, and the severe and critical examination through which they were compelled to pass.

Mr. Chas. E. Whitehead presented to the Court the necessary papers, on which he moved for the admission to this Bar of Mr. Robert M. McLean, late of Baltimore, Md. Mr. Whitehead said it gave him pleasure to make the motion. Mr. McLean, said he, is not unknown in this country; he served our Government as Minister to China, during the Administration of President Pierce, and at a later period he was our Minister to Mexico. He is an accomplished gentleman of much legal attainment, and for many years has stood high at the Baltimore Bar. He has now located among us with the intention of prosecuting his profession.

The Presiding Judge said the papers should be filed, and they would examine them and announce the result at the next meeting of the Court.

Mr. L. I. Lansing moved the admission of Mr. Lester Newell, of the Massachusetts Bar, and presented the papers on which he based his motion. The Presiding Judge inquired if they were all correct. Mr. Lansing said he presumed they were, but he had not particularly examined them. The Court said it was highly necessary that members of the Bar, making motions for the admission of attorneys and counselors from other States should bear in mind the fourth subdivision of the second rule of the Supreme Court. In nearly every instance in such cases heretofore, the papers were found to be incomplete, and had to be returned.

The following is the clause of the rule referred to. We publish it for the benefit of all concerned:

"Applicants for admission from other States shall conform to the foregoing rules, (applicable to admissions after examination,) unless they produce a certificate from a Judge of the highest Court of original jurisdiction in the State, from which they come, to the effect that for three years, immediately preceding, they have practiced as attorneys and counselors in such Court, and that they are in good standing as such attorneys and counselors."

UNITED STATES COMMISSIONERS' OFFICE.

Before Commissioner Osborn.

COUNTERFEITERS SET AT LIBERTY.

Kate Gross, a woman charged with being the accomplice of Joseph Gordon, a counterfeiter, said to be serving a term of imprisonment in the State Prison, was brought up before the Commissioner yesterday, and on the strength of representations made by Colonel Wood, Chief of the Secret Service of the United States Treasury Department, to the effect that she had furnished valuable information to the officers, she was, with the consent of the United States District Attorney, discharged on her own recognizance.

Charles Ulrich was next brought up before the Commissioner. He was charged with having engraved a number of counterfeit plates, among others plates for $500 and $100 compound interest notes. Ex-Judge Stewart appeared as counsel for Ulrich. The following was substantially the interview which took place.

Col. Wood—Charley has been very frank with the Government, and has given the officers a good deal of information.

Commissioner—Col. Wood, do you always let prisoners go when they give you information of others, and then let these others go when they inform upon somebody else.

Col. Wood—No, Sir, I think we put a good many of them through. Mr. Bell can tell you about that.

Mr. Bell—Yes, very few of those who have been tried have got off.

Col. Wood—The Judge knows that.

Ex-Judge Stuart—That's so.

Col. Wood—This (Ulrich) is a man who was with the German who was arrested for having the transfer press, you remember; he is the man who made the transfers. Charley has been under my eye for a long time; he is an expert workman.

Assistant District-Attorney Bell—I think his bail should be $10,000.

Col. Wood—It should be $30,000; just think of the amount of damage he has done the Government.

Ulrich—I couldn't help it. What was I to do?

Col. Wood—I know it Charley; you have had a good deal to pay out at different times to detectives.

Ex-Judge Stuart—Oh, the Colonel I hope will not press such bail.

Col. Wood—Well, it's with the Commissioner.

Ex-Judge Stuart—I know your'e a gentleman; I always said so.

Commissioner—Col. Wood no doubt is right. So far as his intercourse with me is concerned, I found him a gentleman.

Col. Wood—I hope I shall always make good my claim to be so considered. Charley went over there to Cincinnati and tried to get into good society, and became a Mason, and he has rendered me considerable assistance.

Commissioner—I shall require $8,000 bail, in default of which, Ulrich, you stand committed.

Officer in Charge of Prisoner—I have no commitment for him.

Col. Wood—There is no warrant; the bail is $22,000 less than it should be.

Commissioner—I shall prepare a warrant.

Prisoner waived an examination, and it was arranged that when the Government was ready to proceed with the case, counsel for the prisoner would be notified.

Gordon, the counterfeiter alluded to in the case of Kate Gross, was sentenced to the State Prison for two years and six months on the 26th of March, but is still detained in Ludlow-street Jail.

SUPERIOR COURT—SPECIAL TERM—APRIL 30.

Before Judge Barbour.

THE RIGHT TO SUB-LET PREMISES.

John T. White vs. Leonard H. Church and another.—This case came up yesterday on a motion made by defendant to dissolve an injunction. In November last the plaintiff leased his house, furnished, to the defendant for the term of 18 months. The lease contained a covenant which forbid the lessee from assigning, letting or sub-letting the premises. An injunction was obtained a few days since to restrain the defendant from sub-letting to his co-defendant. This injunction defendants now move to dissolve, claiming that inasmuch as the plaintiff has a complete remedy at law to recover any damages he may sustain, he cannot apply to the equity side of the Court, and seek redress by way of injunction. The Court expressed a strong conviction that the injunction ought to be sustained, but reserved the final decision.

For plaintiff, Mr. Burrill; for defendants, Mr. Chedsey.

COURT OF GENERAL SESSIONS.

Before Recorder Hackett.

Yesterday the Grand Jury finished up their business, and returned to the Court the last batch of indictments they had found, whereupon the Recorder dismissed them with the following neat expression of thanks:

GENTLEMEN OF THE GRAND JURY: You will, perhaps, recollect that the charge of the Court upon your induction to your present office as Grand Jurors embraced briefly those statutory requirements to which the Presiding Judge is especially directed to call your attention. It is not my purpose in dismissing you to inflict aught save the thanks which you especially merit for the strict, discriminating and impartial manner with which you have dealt with the many grave offences which have been presented for your consideration during the present term of service. You, gentlemen, composed of the solid business men of this great City, deserve more than mere thanks, for with thorough abnegation of your several personal interests, you have devoted the best hours of business days to the discharge of the high trusts which have devolved upon you. More especially to your credit is the fact, that while fully one-third of all that have been summoned as grand jurors at the present term of this Court have either failed to appear or been excused on various pretexts, you, from a consciousness of duty, sacrificing personal interests, have yielded gracefully to the obligation which every good citizen should discharge. Again renewing my thanks, you are dismissed from further attendance.

SENTENCED TO STATE PRISON.

William Boyle pleaded guilty of petit larceny from the person. On the 20th of April the prisoner, who is a well-known pickpocket, abstracted from the pocket of John Sorohan, of No. 335 West Twenty-sixth-street, his pocket-book and its contents, while riding on an Eighth-avenue car. He was sentenced to the State Prison for four years and six months.

Charles Henderson pleaded guilty of petit larceny from the person, having on the 13th of April taken from Lorenzi Tueji, of No. 31 Baxter-street, a watch and chain valued at $10. He was sent to the State Prison for four years.

William Campbell pleaded guilty of an attempt at grand larceny. On the 8th of April he broke a pane of glass in the window of the premises occupied by John B. Henroe, No. 176 Broadway, and, thrusting his hand inside, snatched about $290 and ran off with it. He was sentenced to the State Prison for two years and six months.

SENT TO THE PENITENTIARY.

Gustav Youn haus pleaded guilty of an attempt to commit burglary in the third degree. He broke into the premises occupied by Mary Pummell, No. 77 Nassau-street, on the morning of the 10th of April, and stole a quantity of watch keys of the value of $30. The iron instrument which the prisoner used to break in with was found on his person. He was sentenced to the Penitentiary for one year and six months.

REMANDED FOR SENTENCE.

William Frampton pleaded guilty of an attempt at grand larceny. He stole from John McLarry, of Jersey City, on the 6th of April, a mare, a wagon and harness—all of the value of $130. Remanded for sentence.

Henry Luther pleaded guilty of an assault with a dangerous weapon with intent to do bodily harm, having on the 24th of February cut Ellen McNulty, of No. 232 Mott-street, on the arm with a razor.

TRIED AND ACQUITTED.

John O'Donnell, indicted for grand larceny, was tried on the charge of having on the 11th of April stolen a bale of cotton, of the value of $100, from Hall T. Starrin, of No. 31 Coenties-slip. He was acquitted.

John Von Glahn and Bernard Stadtman were indicted for petit larceny from the person of Morris Troy, of No. 43 Allen-street, on the 5th of February. They were tried and acquitted.

SUSPENDED AND DISCHARGED.

Isaac Sykes pleaded guilty of petit larceny, having stolen 35 cents. Sentence was suspended and the prisoner discharged.

Mr. A. Oakey Hall, District-Attorney, appeared for the people.

COURT OF SPECIAL SESSIONS.

Before Justice Kelly.

Sixty prisoners were arraigned yesterday, of whom twenty-one were convicted of petit larceny, four of assault and battery, three of violating the health code, one of cruelty to an animal, and one of carrying burglar's tools in the night.

THIEVING.

Two young men named John Horahan and Patrick Cullen were convicted of stealing a cast-iron jamb from an old building adjoining the Police Headquarters in Mulberry-street, which is in process of demolition. They were sent to the Penitentiary for two months each.

Dennis Callahan was arrested at 4:30 o'clock in the morning, a few days since, in South-street, with a coil of wire in his possession, which he had first said he had found at Pier No. 45, but afterward alleged that he had picked it up in the middle of the street. He was taken to the Station-house, and on inquiry the owner of the property was found to be Mr. John Harrison, a dealer in the neighborhood, who recognized it as having been missed from the store. Dennis was sent up for two months.

Edward Riley was seen by William B. Churchill in the act of carrying off a bag of oats from a pile at the foot of Broome-street, which the latter had been employed to watch for the owners. Being found guilty of stealing the same, he was remanded for sentence.

JUVENILE DEPREDATORS.

James Wood, a youth, stole a pair of boots from the store of Wm. Neely, in the Bowery, concealing them under his coat and running away. It was considered by the Court as an aggravation of his offence that he was accompanied by a number of smaller boys, who were evidently in the way of emulating his example. He was sent to the House of Refuge. [illegible] Kenny, a [illegible] specimen of the [illegible] was found with [illegible] of the same species [illegible] the house of G. D. Happy, No. 7 Astor-place, making somewhat extensive arrangements for the purloining of wearing apparel, in which Happy is a dealer. They were discovered by a youth in Happy's employ, who was unable to secure any but Kenny, the rest giving leg bail. Kenny was sent to the House of Refuge for one year.

Martin Winter, James Murphy, James Donegan and Thomas Owen, four youngsters ranging from eight to fifteen years of age, pleaded guilty to stealing a quantity of gold leaf and other articles from Michael Callahan. Winter was sent to the Juvenile Asylum and the others to the House of Refuge for one year each.

THE BILL-POSTING NUISANCE.

John Curry pleaded guilty to the offence of posting bills on the curbstones, which was evidently in his eyes no offence at all. He was discharged with a reprimand.

FISH VENDERS FINED.

Charles O'Callahan, Jeremiah Griffin and Edward Callahan were fined $3 each for selling fish in the street without a permit from the Board of Health.

BURGLARIOUS IMPLEMENTS.

Alfred Moore, an elderly man of peculiarly benignant aspect, was placed at the bar on the charge of carrying burglars' tools in the night. It appeared that on Sunday, the 21st instant, he was sitting on the steps of the Tontine Hotel, corner of Cortlandt and West streets, at about 8:30 P. M., and being ordered off by the proprietor, refused to leave until assisted by Officer Knipe, who started him away, and in so doing discovered the tools, the possession of which was the ground of complaint. They consisted of a jimmy and four skeleton keys. Other implements belonging to the prisoner were afterward discovered at Sweeny's Hotel, where he had been lodging. His counsel attempted to interpose a technical objection to the complaint, which was overruled, and the benevolent looking culprit was consigned to the Penitentiary for six months.

HORSEFLESH AT A DISCOUNT.

John Logan was arrested by Officer Patrick Leahy, of the Seventeenth Precinct, on the 27th inst., while leading a very lame horse, attached to a wagon loaded with kindling wood, the animal being entirely unable to use one of his legs. The boy said he had bought the horse two days before for $5, and acknowledged that he had been warned by an officer not to drive him on pain of being arrested. He was convicted of cruelty, but having being locked up for several days, sentence was suspended.

ASSAULT AND BATTERY.

Adam Raab, charged with beating his wife, acknowledged the fact, but with an air of injured innocence, being plainly of the opinion that the chastisement was only the proper exercise of his undoubted marital right. The Court gave him ten days in the City prison to come to a better understanding of the subject.

In the case of Cornelius C. Hickock, who was found guilty of an assault and battery upon Andrew Kunzler, sentence was suspended.

TUESDAY, April 30—P. M.

The Gold Room opened this morning at 136⅛ ℔ cent., but soon fell off to 135¼ ℔ cent., from which the sales rallied to 135⅜@⅝ ℔ cent. The subsequent sales were at 135½@¼@⅛ ℔ cent. The Foreign Exchanges were comparatively steady on the basis of 109½ ℔ cent. for standard 60-day bills on London. Only a moderate business was done for the Scotia's mail of to-morrow. The Cable telegrams to-day were somewhat conflicting both as to the political situation and the prices of 5-20s in Frankfort and London, but the accepted reports, so far as politics are concerned, were in the direction of assured peace. The Cotton market at Liverpool was reported ⅛d. easier, but this partial reaction excited no surprise, after the vigorous advance of 1d.@1⅛d. from the lowest sales of last week. The United States 5-20s of 1862 were in large demand to-day, without reference to the Frankfort or London quotations, and the top rate of 111⅛ ℔ cent. was made, including the Gold 3 ℔ cent. coupon due to-morrow. The other Public Funds of the United States were firm on a large business done in the Gold-bearing and 7.30 ℔ cent. Currency Stocks. The easy Money market favored the demand for investment, as well as speculation in the Funds, and the transactions at the counters of the great dealers were unusually heavy in amount, as well yesterday as to-day. The lenders of Money on other approved collateral are placing their balances with the Brokers at 5@6 ℔ cent. There is a sensible increase in the speculations of the Stock Exchange at advancing prices for the Railways, but thus far without increasing the employment for Money. The chief reason, perhaps, for this is, that the bearish interest in the market continues to borrow a large amount of Stocks in place of covering their outstanding short contracts.

The Stock Exchange was very much excited on Erie Shares, which advanced four per cent. on yesterday's sales, without much intermission or decline in the demand. This movement, although not wholly unexpected, was more rapid to-day than even its promoters anticipated. The short interest in the Stock was evidently exercised, and up to 3 o'clock no limit to the rise seemed to be too extravagant for the reality. The other New-York Roads were firm and higher on Central and advancing on Hudson River. Philadelphia and Reading advanced, and nearly the whole Western list was buoyant, and especially so on Michigan Southern, the Northwest Stocks, Fort Wayne and Rock Island, for all of which there is a strong and competing demand between the shorts to cover outstanding contracts, and the buyers for a larger advance. Altogether, the dealings have not been so animated, or so decidedly upward, for several weeks past. The Miscellaneous Shares are higher for Atlantic Mail by 3 ℔ cent., and firm on Pacific Mail, Western Telegraph, &c.

At 5 o'clock the following quotations were made as compared with Monday night. There was renewed excitement in the Railways after the last Boards:

The day's business at the office of the Assistant Treasurer was as follows: Receipts for Customs, $504,000; Gold Notes, $460,000; total payments, $10,574,777 34; balance, $115,170,035 94; total receipts, $3,745,248 43.

Mr. GEORGE A. OSGOOD, son-in-law of Mr. CORNELIUS VANDERBILT, has become a member of the Stock Exchange firm of Messrs. FOWLER, OSGOOD & Co., No. 35 Broad-street.

In answer to an inquiry as to the present low sales of the new bonds of the State of Tennessee, (2½@3 ℔ cent. below the original bonds, ex coupons,) we can only State our impression that the old story of last year, of some irregularity or want of due legal authority in the signatures to the coupons of the bonds, has been revived. This of itself would amount to nothing, for we have good reason to believe that the new bonds are quite as regular in all respects as the old, and that the interest will be provided on all alike. But we may add to this the rumor that short sales of the new bonds (in addition to late transactions in payment for railroad iron) are being made on political grounds, by, or in the interest of, the opponents of the present State administration, the purpose being to make the State credit an issue in the next August election for Governor. Assuming this to be true, we should esteem it a good reason, additional to the collection of taxes and of Railway interest for the purpose, why Gov. BROWNLOW will be sure to provide the July Interest on the entire Debt.

The Shoe and Leather Bank, corner Chambers-street and Broadway, will close their office at No. 29 Broad-street, Thursday evening, May 2, and the Tenth National Bank will remove from corner Broadway and Worth-street, and open at No. 29 Broad-street, on Friday morning, May 3. The two banks are understood to be closely identified in interests, and the Broad-street dealers in the Shoe and Leather will doubtless be quite as well accommodated in the Tenth National.

Among the first of May changes in the Stock firms of the street we notice that BELL & Co. give place to BELL, FARIS & Co., No. 14 Broad-street. See advertisement. Mr. ALBERT FRANK, No. 17 Broad-street, admits his brothers, L. J. & G. J. FRANK, as partners, under the style of A. FRANK & BROTHERS.

The Philadelphia Ledger says:

"Pursuant to adjournment the stockholders of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company will meet to-day at 10 o'clock A. M., at Concert Hall, Chesnut-street, to pass upon the Supplemental Act passed at the last session of the Legislature, authorizing the Company to increase its capital stock and to borrow money to the amount of $30,000,000—$15,000,000 in stock and $15,000,000 in bonds. The capital of the Company at the beginning of this year was $20,000,000, its mortgage debt about $10,000,000, with other liabilities to the amount of $15,000,000—in all a little over $45,000,000. The supplemental act to be passed on to-day authorizes an increase, shares and loans, of $30,000,000, making an aggregate of $75,000,000. So large an increase of capital is a subject worthy the consideration of shareholders pecuniarily, and of the public politically. This large amount of means is claimed as necessary to protect the interests of the road and trade of the city against the strong competition offered by rival roads and cities. A full representation of all interests, it is hoped, will be present. The Pennsylvania Railroad is a great enterprise, and should not be allowed to suffer for want of adequate means to make it most effective in results."

GENERAL NEWS.

The Richmond Dispatch states that application was made to Gen. Schofield Saturday, on behalf of certain parties in Richmond and elsewhere, for such a modification of the stay law as would place all creditors upon an equal footing. It is charged that inasmuch as creditors whose claims have been created since April 3, 1865, have the privilege of compelling the payment of the same, older creditors will be entirely cut off in every case in which the debtor has not sufficient property to pay both his old and his new debts.

The Tremont Mills and Suffolk Manufacturing Company of Lowell, Mass., have given the operatives in their employ notice of a partial stoppage of work in their mills. One-half of the work of each corporation is to be stopped on the expiration of the notice, and the manufacture of woolen goods is to be entirely suspended. The operatives are leaving daily, and there is no disposition to fill their places, and those out of employ find it very difficult, if not impossible, to get work.

The Late War-Panic in America and Europe—The Romances of the Cable.

We suppose that the great Franco-Prussian war panic is over for a fortnight—both here and in Europe. It can hardly be believed that Bismarck, fractious, choleric, and determined though he be, will again shake his fist in Napoleon's face before the London Peace Conference meets on the 15th of this month; and it must be doubted whether the French troops headed by that formidable telegraphic figure, "Marshal M'Mahon, Duke of Magenta," who have been hotly engaged for ten days in "grinding their swords," like our own volunteers before the battle of Bull Run, will continue to carry on their operations as fervidly as they did a week ago.

The "war" was sprung on us so suddenly, and in such a terrible and unaccountable manner, that we were not only startled, but in danger of being quite upset. One telegram hastened after another from Paris, Berlin and London—all proclaiming a gigantic war to be imminent and certain; and if for an hour these three capitals failed to sound the alarm, the lesser political centres, like Berne, Amsterdam and Stuttgart did what they could to supply the deficiency.

Our markets, and especially our finances, were excited as never before from Europe. In fact, it may be said that we have now, for the first time, learned the quick and tremendous influence which European movements, acting through the agency of the Atlantic Cable, must henceforth exercise upon all American interests.

The critical history of the recent "war panic," as it was wrought up in this country, and as it actually existed in Europe, cannot yet be fully unfolded. But on some points, we have already had light.

The first startling and unexpected shock through the magnetic wire reached America on the 12th April, from Berlin. We had been hearing daily about the squabble between Spain and England on the Tornado question, when suddenly a Herald "special," which the Tribune and World also heralded, proclaimed that Bismarck had just dispatched an "energetic note" to Paris "demanding Napoleon's reasons for the sudden arming which is taking place"—declaring that he (the choleric Count) would hold France "responsible for the serious consequences which may ensue," and requiring at the same time the "instant cessation of Napoleon's warlike preparations." This, as we have said, was the first sensational dispatch, which was immediately followed by others, definite and indefinite, announcing the sudden march of Prussian troops to the frontier, and a general warlike hullabaloo which almost led people to imagine that before another day the Prussians would be in Paris, the French in Berlin, and the Dutch in Holland.

Not till Friday last were we able to tell the foundation for this initial terrible telegram. The Berlin letter in the Herald of that date reveals the secret. The writer of the letter was the author of the dispatch. And how did he acquire his diplomatic knowledge on such an immense question of state? Did it come from the irascible "Count" who wrote the belligerent note, or from the Emperor who received it? Was it reached through a key-hole or by a subterranean telegraph, or from Bismarck's footman or the King's fool? "The source," says the author, "from which this startling piece of news is derived, is one which I have always found well informed, and to which in this instance I cannot help attaching still more weight, as it tallies with what I have heard in other quarters." The source, we are further led to understand, is "an acquaintance of mine, who is on an intimate footing with Bismarck," who, moreover, is an "enthusiastic patriot," and who has various other characteristics which make it very likely that he is just the precise and particular person whom Bismarck would intrust with State secrets. The correspondent, however, inadvertently weakens our belief in the authenticity of his awful news, by subsequently alleging that not only the "highest political circles" refuse to credit such things, but that even the "King and Crown Prince" are opposed to them—the King having, as we are assured, a "vivid recollection" of all the history of Prussia, which the correspondent proceeds to narrate in a manner which makes it certain that none but the "King" himself, while under the influence of lager beer, could have furnished the facts. It was, then, this preposterous dispatch, from this ridiculous "source"—a source so well known to some of our newspaper correspondents—which was flashed across the Atlantic Ocean, startled half of America, and created a panic among the "shorts" in gold!

After this stunning affair, there came for a series of days masses of cloudy dispatches which were portentous as the "war cloud" itself; but the next really fearful and positively definite thing reached the American continent a week after the first, or on the 19th April. It was dated "Berlin, April 18—Evening," and excitedly set forth the report that Napoleon was strengthening his forces and military posts on the frontier, and placing his artillery on a war footing; that large numbers of ambulances (subsequently corrected to horses) were being purchased, and that the French reserves of 1868 were presently to be called out. This seemed to put out of question all doubt about the coming Franco-Prussian war. The Emperor had "got his back up" as well as Bismarck; and now let the world look out for the clash of "mighty opposites." No wonder that after this we learned every day that "war now seems imminent," that "war is now regarded as almost certain," &c., &c.

Now, what was the "source" of this startling Berlin dispatch of the "18th, evening," which was suddenly shot hot over to the American continent? In the New-York Times of last Friday there will be found among our European extracts a letter of the Paris correspondent of the London Times, dated the 12th of April, in which are contained the details, word for word, of all this Berlin news. Now, if this news was so important and authentic that it had to be projected over here when the "war-panic" in Wall-street was at its height, why was it held back in Europe for a week? and how came it to be sent on the 18th instead of the 12th, and from Berlin instead of from London, where it was first published? The English correspondent who first gave this news to the European public, derived it, as he tells us, "from a private letter of a person in position (which I prefer not alluding to more particularly) not far from the frontier." The "source" in this instance is of the most mysterious possible character; but still we consider it as much more trustworthy than the "source" of the first belligerent dispatch, as the news is less ridiculous in one than in the other.

It is neither possible nor is it worth while to enter into an investigation of the "source" of all the Cable dispatches that were published during the late severe war panic. Those we have spoken of were far the most important in themselves, and produced the most profound sensation and the heaviest pecuniary losses here. Many of the others, especially the harrowing "specials" given by some of our cotemporaries, needed only to be looked at to be laughed at. We have no doubt that, in case of the next war in Europe, parties who are interested in the accuracy of their Cable dispatches, will scrutinize them more intelligently than the Wall-street gudgeons have done those of the last fortnight.

The Luxemburg Difficulty and the London Conference.

The acceptable news from unofficial sources, foreshadowing the probable settlement of the Luxemburg trouble, is satisfactorily affirmed on higher authority in the Cable telegram this morning.

Lord Stanley, on the reassembling of Parliament after the Easter holidays, was questioned on the subject in the House of Commons yesterday afternoon; and his answer was in no way ambiguous. Both France and Prussia agree to the proposition for a Conference. And that involves, we may safely assume, their assent, likewise, to the preliminaries, of which an outline was given in a former dispatch.

France withdraws her demand for territorial compensation. Prussia withdraws her troops from the coveted fortress; and thus virtually abandons whatever rights she acquired in the Duchy by the settlement of 1815, as well as by that of 1839.

Luxemburg, with its fortifications dismantled, becomes either neutral territory, or what is equivalent to the same thing, it is likely to become incorporated with the Kingdom of Holland proper. Aside from its value in a military sense, it is not an exceedingly tempting piece of property. The Grand Duke may as well become its real owner as its nominal sovereign, for all that any leading European Power need care, so long as it ceases to be a menace to existing boundary lines. That essential point the London Conference undertakes to settle, and, to all appearance, with a clear prospect of success.

Compromising Custom-house Seizures.

The testimony taken before the Congressional Committee on affairs in the Custom-house in this City, makes a book of some 350 pages, and contains matter worthy of more attention than it is likely to receive.

That part relating to the compromises by the Custom-house officers of seizure cases is of special interest. The Committee had before them sixteen witnesses who testified to having had goods seized by the Custom-house officers, and to having compromised the cases. The amount of money paid in these sixteen cases was over $300,000, the several sums varying from $125 to $65,000. How many other cases there have been does not appear in the testimony, but the amount received from them can be estimated from a document furnished to the Committee by the Auditor at the Custom-house, showing the distribution of the proceeds of the fines, penalties and forfeitures.

This showed that between October, 1864, and December, 1866, a period of two years and three months, the Surveyor received for his share the nice little sum of $101,206 14; that from June 1861, to September, 1865, being four years and three months, the Naval Officer received for his share $114,704 27, and that from May 16, 1866, to Dec. 31, 1866, the Collector received as his share $16,080 89. It is not possible, from these figures, to give any exact statement of the amount of compromises, because these sums include all that was received in suits which were not compromised, as well as in those that were. These, however, have not been very numerous, and we think we should be within bounds if we estimated the amount of the compromises, for the last two or three years at least, at about $150,000 or $200,000 a year, one-half of which goes to the United States and the other half is divided between three men. Our readers can see from this, if they did not know before, why offices in the New-York Custom-house are so sharply sought. They must not understand, however, that the sums we have named are all that these parties receive. They are all salaried offices besides, and receive, if we are not mistaken, the Collector $6,000 a year, the Naval Officer $5,000, and the Surveyor $4,500 a year, besides what they can make out of fines, penalties and forfeitures; and this includes not only what they receive during their term, but all that are incurred during their term, whenever received.

This whole matter of Custom-house compromises demands attention. By what authority do these officials compromise them at all? An examination of the statutes shows only a statute authorizing Collectors to release property seized and valued at not more than $1,000; and yet we hear of their settling on every hand, receiving more than $3,000 in thirteen of the sixteen cases specified in the testimony before the Committee. The question had suggested itself to others it seems, for we see by the testimony of Mr. Chittenden, late Register of the Treasury, that he was retained in such a seizure case in this City in September, 1864, and the question of compromise was suggested to him. He testifies that he "was very strongly impressed with the opinion that no power of compromise existed with the Government officers * * * and that in short the officers of the Government had no more power to settle an offence against the laws than ordinary officers charged with criminal transactions had to settle theirs"—an opinion which strikes us as very reasonable. Subsequently the Committee had before them Mr. Clinch, who has been Deputy Collector in this port since 1839, and on the Committee inquiring of him where this authority to compromise came from, he informed them that it could be found in the act of March 3, 1841, section 5, and the act of March 3, 1863, section 10.

We have examined these acts to satisfy ourselves. The act of 1863 in express terms authorizes, not the Custom-house officers, but the Secretary of the Treasury, to make compromises of claims in favor of the United States after full statement of facts from the District-Attorney or other attorney or agent. This, therefore, gives no authority to the Custom-house officers. We turned to the act of 1841. It proved to be the Civil Appropriation Bill of that year, passed as usual at the heel of the session, and in section 5 was a clause requiring the Collectors, Naval Officers and Surveyors, in addition to the accounts then required from them, to render a quarter-yearly account "of all sums of money by each of them respectively received or collected for fines, penalties or forfeitures, or for seizures of goods, wares or merchandise, or upon compromises made upon said seizures."

If this is all that the Custom-house officials have relied on to support their action in compromising claims of this nature, we are strongly inclined to think that they have no power at all. It is very surprising that the question of power has never been raised in some way before the Courts, but there are some features of the testimony which indicate a desire to keep the matter in the dark as far as possible.

The act of 1863 may perhaps give the power to the Secretary of the Treasury of compromising, though it is doubtful whether the words "any claim in favor of the United States" include criminal proceedings for violation of law. But if these compromises are sought to be authorized under that act, then it is not the various Custom-house officials, but the Secretary and Solicitor of the Treasury, who are directly and wholly responsible for them, a position of things which does not seem to have been in accordance with the impressions of the Committee or of the community at large.

A Strange Story.

One of the most extraordinary stories of married life we ever heard of has just been made public. The incidents are more improbable than a novelist or dramatist, with a strict regard for his reputation, would dare to use. The story, as it originally appeared, was that a Mr. Wight had married a Miss Chamberlain, having just obtained a divorce from his first wife on the sole evidence of his second. The first wife then acted as bridesmaid at Miss Chamberlain's marriage, standing there, as we are told, "like a living corpse." The "curse and blight of the Almighty" were invoked by the agonized reporter upon the newly married couple.

These are not pleasant things to hear, and Mr. Wight has come forward with a long statement, in which the assertions of the reporter are contradicted, but a narrative in every way more strange and remarkable is substituted for them. The husband tells his own story, and it far transcends the wildest dreams of Defoe or Sue. In 1854 Mr. Wight returned to this country from Europe in order to marry a lady to whom he was engaged. He came sooner than he intended, because the lady's parents and all her family had died, and left her unprotected. She was twenty-three years old, and afflicted with a nervous disease which her mother described as hysteria. The pair went to England, and while at Keswick one night, a month after their marriage, the husband was horrified to see his wife fall at his feet in a fit of epilepsy. She had seventeen fits before the morning. Shocked at the discovery that his wife was afflicted with this most awful disease, knowing that it was incurable, and despairing of escape from his terrible position, he that night, as he states, "adopted her as his child."

From that time to this he has nursed her and taken care of her, but he has never resumed the relationship of their marriage tie. He calls her in his narrative, "his patient" and "his ward." Once, when she thought he proposed to treat her as a wife, she was rendered "extremely unhappy." Her disease grew worse—the very servants and nurses fled from the house in horror. Six years ago Miss Chamberlain came as nurse, and as Mr. Wight says, his "patient" herself proposed that he should marry this lady. "She," (the first wife) "had come to regard it as religiously wrong to think of fulfilling the relations of wife in her condition." She pressed him to marry Miss Chamberlain. Let us imagine what she must have suffered ere she could bring herself to this. They tried to get a divorce in Indiana, but failed, for reasons which Mr. Wight, a little inconsistently, declines to mention. At last they succeeded—for the wife helped—and Miss Chamberlain was the solitary witness on whose evidence the compact was dissolved. Of what nature that evidence was, we are not informed. The divorced wife was present at the marriage ceremony, and she is to live with the couple for the future.

Was there ever such a story? One scarcely knows which to pity most, the man chained to a scarcely living woman for thirteen years, appalled night and day by the terrible visitations to which she was subject, or the woman doomed to witness the misery which she had caused, loss of his affections and his marriage with another, and to bear in addition the remorse which her own deception and sin must necessarily occasion her. Verily, the tragedies of real life are more ghastly than those which the imagination conjures up.

MINOR TOPICS.

Ristori, it is said, has made $270,000 clear profit by playing 168 nights during her visit to the United States. What other calling in life pays like this? No wonder Ristori has long articles in the magazines and columns in the newspapers wherever she goes, or that we are commanded to recognize in her not only a great actress and a woman of genius—but a heroine, an inspiree, a goddess. What succeeds like success? Why is it that these great rewards of the stage do not entice into the field of competition a larger proportion of gifted persons? The law, literature, art, all attract worthy aspirants for fame—few, comparatively, go to the drama. Is the cause to be traced to the monopoly which a few men, in every country, exercise over the career—to their power to shut the door in the faces of deserving competitors? Is it ignorance, selfishness, or conceit which manages this calling—while other professions are open? Ristori deserves her reward; but no one can deny that she is well rewarded, and she secures it because she is free and beyond the reach of the charlatans who look upon actors and actresses as marionettes or as commodities, which, being bought and paid for, may be used at odd times as a boy uses a penny whistle.

We agree with the Tribune that the boat crews of Yale and Harvard could not compete successfully, at present, against those of Oxford or Cambridge, but still we should like to see them try. It would do them good. We observe that the Harvard men are demanding that the race in July shall be rowed on Lake Quinsigamond, because it "is a smooth sheet of water," while there is a "chop in the Connecticut waters which would be unfavorable to a perfect race." While they [illegible] themselves to "[illegible]" [illegible] they will never [illegible] school-boy river, and the contending boats have to be piloted round very ugly reaches, in and out among steamboats and barges, under bridges, and with all the accidents of a crowded stream against them. This year Cambridge was partly stopped by a barge. On one occasion the Cambridge boat was sunk, and there have been innumerable instances of steamers getting right in the way. Under these circumstances, to pull over four miles and a half in twenty-two minutes thirty-nine seconds is tough work. Our University men must get used to pulling in bad water, and know what training means, before they go in to win against dark or light blue. The daily "bill of fare" for the Harvard and Yale crews, actually under training, would make the Captain of an English eight shake in his shoes. "Beef, jellies, eggs, mutton, bread and milk, steaks," "not restricting themselves to quantity"—what on earth can young men expect to do on such a regimen, except to get dyspeptic and puffy? If this is training, there are a good many people outside the Universities who would like to be put through a course of it. Our young friends should remember that the object of training is to enlarge the muscles, not what sporting papers call the "bread-basket."

Those of our readers who are going to Paris had better acquaint themselves with some of the inconveniences they will have to bear. The arrangements for public exhibitions are generally bad everywhere, but in Paris they are simply detestable. "They order these things better in France," is a saying which must soon become obsolete. In the first place, you cannot buy a ticket without showing your photograph—and in some cases that is a very disagreeable necessity. We have, however, known persons who are not at all averse to it. You may alter your appearance; care may make you thin, or joy may make you fat, as singing anthems did Falstaff; and then your season ticket may be taken away, and you may be hurled into prison as an impostor. All this is very troublesome. Then, when you get inside the building, there is nothing to sit down upon—except your carte de visite, which would be an insufficient accommodation in most cases. But there is one M. Bernard coming shortly with chairs, for which a toll will have to be paid—nothing is given for nothing in this French Exposition. They talk of "Yankee sharpness"—what is it compared with the ravenousness of our Gallic friends! This show is one great scheme for levying black-mail upon the civilized universe. Fabulous sums have been demanded for the room taken up by each country, and now the visitor cannot move without opening his purse. And then the "polite" Frenchman has made it very unpleasant for some of his guests to go to the Exhibition. A correspondent alludes to what he calls the "lavatory, &c., question." The plain fact is that the "&c.s" have been very shamefully mismanaged. Under a marquée around the building, where all the people sit and drink their cheerful and invigorating eau sucrée, "we come," says this correspondent, "to a door with the word Dames upon a signboard stretched out from it. Is it retired? The door of it is, like the door of the next restaurant, in the midst of the gayest throngs; the door also is glass, and it is set in a wall of glass." The visitor must pass through "a crowd of men tippling beer and brandy, absinthe and vermout" to get to the lavatory. Decidedly, all this is very "Frenchy," but not much according to the taste and habit of more fastidious people. It will be hard for Americans to conform themselves to these latest Paris fashions. In one of John Leech's sketches there was a Frenchman, with a rueful face, saying to another, "I've caught a bad cold; I am ill; I was imprudent." "How?" "Why, yesterday I washed my neck." Judging from the arrangements for cleanliness which are thought to be sufficient at the Paris Exposition, we can scarcely say that this jest was much exaggerated.

We should like to have it understood on what ground it is that the public is expected to take a morbid interest in the last moments of condemned malefactors. In England it is believed, much against common sense and experience, that a public execution teaches a wholesome moral lesson—whereas, all the thieves and ruffians of the locality flock like carrion birds to the gallows, and exult in the spectacle of their comrade shaking hands with Jack Ketch, chaffing the chaplain, and dying "game." In this country we do not believe in the gallows as a moral teacher for the young; but it would be an improvement upon our system if murderers were allowed to go to their graves without reporters standing by to send us their dying blasphemies. Take the case of a man hanged in Illinois a few days ago as an instance of the mischief. We are told that on the morning of his execution he sent for some wine and cigars, and made himself merry over them. "He was very cool to the clergyman present." He uttered some shocking blasphemies, and when the turnkeys came for him he asked them to "put in the papers" that he was "very sorry." That is the ambition of these wretches—to be "put in the papers." It is to be regretted that their desires are so often gratified. But nothing that can take place here is so bad as a scene reported in the last English papers to have occurred at a jail in London. The condemned man, when placed under the rope, struggled with the turnkeys, fought with the hangman, amid the wild excitement of the crowd, and was at last forcibly held down while the noose was put round his neck. Against exhibitions of this disgraceful kind many writers have protested, but custom is as powerful as law on the banks of the Thames, and murderers will still have their necks broken in public for the edification of the small boys who prowl about the street gutters. The "graphic" stories of these circumstances are scarcely more improving to the mind than those equally startling anecdotes of the feats which women occasionally perform. There is one such story now going the rounds, ending thus: "Mrs. —— recently gave birth to four boys, making six in less than one year." This extremely unpleasant female is doubtless proud of her achievements; we hope her husband likes them as well; but every right-minded person must needs regard her as a scourge to her species and a terror to persons about to marry. She ought to be dispatched without loss of time to the barren parts of our new Territory. Better is the dry crust than the stalled ox with such a woman.

It is now positively stated that Charles Dickens has accepted an engagement to give a course of his celebrated readings in this country. If this promise be realized, we believe that Mr. Dickens will find himself mistaken in the view which he holds of the temper of the American people toward him. He has been deterred from coming here, because he imagines that he has provoked our bitter resentment by his free handling of certain strongly marked features which he suppoes to be peculiar to the Americans, in Martin Chuzzlewit and The American Notes. He is under the impression that he would be very unfavorably received, and find none to welcome him. We can assure him by anticipation that he is mistaken. His caricatures in Chuzzlewit have been laughed at as cordially and good-humoredly here as on the other side of the Atlantic, and the world of readers is under too many obligations to him to remember to his disadvantage any injustices we may conceive him to have committed. There are few of us who are not indebted to Charles Dickens for many an hour of amusement, of relief from pain, of [illegible] from care, which scarcely any one [illegible] his varied powers, and kindly instincts, and large insight into the human mind, could have supplied. He has probably given us all more genuine, innocent, enduring pleasure than any living author—more perhaps than any single writer of past days, except Shakespeare. Take him up at any moment and there is always something which will chime in with your mood. To such a man we owe a debt of gratitude which small misconceptions of ourselves ought not and cannot induce us to forget. Charles Dickens need not hesitate to come to America. He will find that we do not nurse small resentments against great men. As to his readings, they are as charming as his books. He is one of the best actors of the day—better, it is said, than any professional actor now on the stage. It is a living picture of the character he assumes, which he puts before the spectator. Compared with him, the painted and dyed egotists and fops of the stage, whose faces, voices and manners are always the same, are contemptible mountebanks—scarcely worthy to be mentioned with Vincent Crummles, who after all was a very respectable sort of person. We hope Mr. Dickens will visit us, and we promise him that he will never regret it.

It is melancholy to reflect how much mischief a very few fools can do in a large community. One child can start a conflagration which a hundred men cannot put out. So now, while the great body of the people in the Southern States seem to be accepting the terms dictated by Congress in good faith, and doing all in their power to restore their relations to the National Government, here and there a blatant ass keeps up his braying about the Yankees until he seems to fill the whole South with his stupid and malignant clamor. There are plenty of people in the North who find their account in representing all this as the true voice of the Southern people, and making it the basis of resentful or restrictive action upon their interests. Very much of the harsh legislation to which the South has been subjected, has been due to this source. Isolated murders and robberies have been represented as characteristic of Southern society. Special instances of a failure to enforce the law have created the belief that law and justice were unknown in the Southern States. There has been a grand crusade against the character, reputation and peace of the South, and it has found its most effective weapons in just such special occurrences and declarations as those referred to. The very best thing the South can possibly do for itself is to abolish or muzzle its fools.

Mere charity, though always good and always useful, is not the only way to help the needy. There are thousands of men in the Southern States who would be glad to work, but can find no capital to employ their labor. We know of one case where a valuable mill was taken possession of by the Government and ran during the war, at the end of which it was delivered to its owner, then become a widow. She leased it to a Northern man, who has run it two years, meantime allowing its taxes to run themselves, and has finally gone off, paying nothing, even for the rent. The mill now stands seized, and being worth thousands of dollars is to be sold for eight hundred dollars' taxes. Another establishment consists of many acres of highly cultivated land, before the war devoted to grape-growing and wine-making. Its owners would be glad to part with it for any sum that would help them, and meanwhile, the father, an old gentleman of delicate rearing and highly educated, cultivates what little ground he can, himself drawing the plow, held by his wife, to plant corn for absolute sustenance. Mining lands also abound, particularly in the northern tier of States where the investment of capital and its judicious expenditure would give longed-for work to starving men, and bring just and handsome returns to those who are able to enter upon this mode of help, which is really the best for all parties. The Southern lands hold in their own bosoms the food, the clothing, the books, the everything that the Southern people need. Let those who would permanently help these needy ones apply their capital so that it will bring forth substantial benefits.

The Italian Admiral Persano, who lost the naval battle of Lissa, has been cashiered, deprived of his rank and decorations, and sent back to private life a disgraced and ruined man. The sentence though severe is just. At the last moment before the beginning of the conflict, Persano transferred his flag from the deck of the Rè d' Italia to the hold of the iron-clad Affondatore, where he was unable to obtain a glimpse of his own or the enemy's fleet during the whole fight. Partly in consequence of the confusion resulting from the concealment of the Admiral, the Italian iron-clads were shamefully beaten by a shabby fleet of wooden vessels, hastily equipped, and manned by crews of doubtful loyalty, under Admiral Tegethof. Persano's excuse for hiding was that he considered his own safety to be essential to that of the fleet. His poltroonery recalls, by contrast, the conduct of Admiral Farragut on a similar occasion. When proceeding to the attack on the rebel fleet in Mobile harbor, he was urged to consult his own safety by taking refuge in a monitor. No, replied the gallant old sailor, "if I must go to the bottom, I'd rather go on a shingle than in a tea-kettle." So, lashed to the mast, he went in and won. The one was an Italian, the other an American.

Those who have business to transact in the United States Court buildings complain of the strong smell of liquor which pervades them, arising from a quantity of spirits seized as forfeited and stored in the lower rooms of the building. Aside from the personal inconvenience to those to whom the smell is unpleasant, and the indecorum of having the atmosphere of a Court of justice undistinguishable from that of a corner groggery, the danger of fire is one which ought not to be incurred for a moment. Any accident which should touch a match to that spirit would send the whole building heavenward in a light blaze so quick that little or nothing could be saved, and the loss and vexation and worry and labor which would result from the destruction of the records of those Courts would be incalculable. This risk is entirely too great to be run for the sake of any little profit which may be made by using the building as a liquor storehouse. The matter should be attended to by somebody at once.

It is reported that Gov. Fenton does not intend to exercise the power conferred upon him by a law of the last Legislature, of designating some one of the Judges of the Supreme Court before whom all of a certain large class of cases should be brought. If this be true, the Governor has acted wisely, and we trust he will adhere to his purpose. The power conferred is simply monstrous—far greater than should ever be conferred, without restriction, upon any one man. Very strong remonstrances have been forwarded to the Governor on this subject, and the general sentiment of the community is decidedly against the appointment. By what special machinery was so extraordinary a bill as this engineered through the Legislature? Cannot some of the champions of the purity of that body inform us?

The Times of this morning says it has never been so prosperous as it is now. Good! All its readers say it has never been brighter or better.—Evening Gazette.

Thank you, Sir.

Street Railway Cars in Richmond.

Richmond, Va., Tuesday, April 30.

To-morrow the street car Company will run four cars for both whites and blacks, and two cars for ladies. The Company have only six cars, and this is done after consulting with Gen. Schofield.

The Gardiner Will Case—A Decision in Equity.

A domestic feud, in which the widow of a former President of the United States and her only brother were the principal actors, has occupied a full share of public attention for a few days past by its thorough exploitation in a Staten Island Court.

Yesterday the case was concluded in favor of the plaintiff, and we do not hesitate to say against the weight of the evidence—the jury yielding to the equity of the point at issue. Our readers will understand that we refer to the action between Mrs. Tyler and her brother, Mr. Gardiner, touching the validity of the will of their mother. Mrs. Juliana Gardiner, who died in October, 1864, leaving the bulk of her property, amounting to $180,000, to Mrs. Tyler during her natural life, or until the United States should reimburse her for the losses, consequent upon the war, to the property left her in Virginia by her husband, Ex-President Tyler.

As the contingency upon which the reversion of any portion of this estate to Mr. Gardiner during the lifetime of Mrs. Tyler was altogether out of reason, the terms of the testatrix were equivalent to an absolute disinheritance of her son. When the will was presented for probate, it was thrown out at the instance of Mr. Gardiner, on the ground that undue influence had been exerted upon his mother by Mrs. Tyler. The latter then appealed the matter to the Supreme Court, in General Term, which overruled the decision of the Surrogate. It was now Mr. Gardiner's turn to carry up the case, and on the argument before the Court of Appeals the original ruling of the Surrogate was sustained, the will being pronounced invalid. The suit just concluded was then instituted by Mr. Gardiner for partition of the property under the statute, as if no will existed; and Mrs. Tyler, setting up the will as a defence, made the question of its validity an issue for the determination of a jury, who have rendered their decision adversely to her expectations.

Such was the case in its legal aspects—offering no novelties but affording another of the innumerable illustrations of the law's uncertainties and vexations. When we look, however, at the circumstances out of which these family infelicities arose, we discover their origin to have been in the political antagonisms of the rebellion, which divided many a household besides that of Mrs. Gardiner.

As an illustration of the bitter asperities and active hostility which sectional feeling excites, and of the tendency of such animosities to make us forgetful of the simplest social amenities, unmindful of the promptings of natural affection, and selfishly regardless of equitable considerations, we present a brief outline of the salient points of the case as they were developed on the trial.

Mrs. Tyler, by the eventualities of the war, was reduced, soon after her husband's death, from the affluent position of an owner of sixty slaves and eleven hundred broad acres, to a condition of poverty as abject as was unaccustomed and distasteful. Her slaves freed, her lands despoiled, herself widowed, and her family of seven children beggared, she sought refuge at the home of her mother, whose maternal affection was fully aroused by her distress, and by whom she was cordially welcomed.

Up to this period Mr. Gardiner was fully in the confidence of his mother, having managed her estate for many years, and still living beneath her roof. On his part there would seem to have been an antipathy to the settlement of his sister and her family at the mother's house, as he refused to set out for Virginia to escort the widow and her children to New-York, giving as a reason that the life of a Northern man would not be safe if he had anything to do with rebels.

Here, then, was the key-note to the unhappiness of the family. Mrs. Tyler, smarting under her misfortunes, and an avowed sympathizer with the Southern cause, took umbrage at the cool reception with which her brother greeted her, and from that time began the series of petty annoyances which she had the bad taste to permit on the part of the children toward their uncle, the plaintiff. It is very well to say that it is unmanly to resent the meaningless epithets and insulting language of underbred urchins, but the mildest-mannered man could scarcely brook for months the treatment which Mr. Gardiner appears to have received from his nephews and nieces, without occasionally losing his patience. At last Mr. Gardiner was compelled to take his family from his mother's dwelling, which he never again entered. Eight months before her decease she wrote a very curt and formal note to her son, requiring him to yield the agency of her estate, and he obeyed the mandate. He never held communication with his mother again. Meanwhile Mrs. Tyler remained with the invalid, and four hours before her decease the will was signed which virtually made the daughter mistress of the property.

In these facts there would seem to be strong presumptive evidence of undue influence; but, from the testimony of a number of respectable witnesses, it was shown that none was exerted, and that Mrs. Gardiner made her will in the full consciousness of what jealousy and heart-burnings would probably arise from her action. The sympathies of the people in this case were, however, reflected by the jury, who, in such instances as this, are apt to lose sight of the law and decide the case upon its equity.

FOREIGN NOTES.

Lord Shaftsbury's revelations, recently made in the House of Lords, of the atrocities of the gang-system that prevails in the Eastern counties of England, are so shocking and so indecent that we can only refer to them in general terms. The London Times refers to them in a leader, in which it says: "The Carolinas, Georgia, Louisiana, and even Cuba must yield the palm of brutality" to these counties. "The ready pen and fertile imagination of Mrs. Beecher Stowe have not painted pictures worse than these sober and well-attested realities, now of ordinary occurrence on the estates of English gentlemen under the very shadow of our old cathedrals." This gang-system has endured for two or three generations, or about as long as the worst period of African Slavery in this country, without any fault being found with it, probably because British philanthropists have had their hands fully occupied with the miseries of American darkeys. There are difficulties in dealing with it now. The labor is necessary to the farmers. As there are no cottages on the estates, the laborers, a majority of whom are children of both sexes, are hived in villages, from which they are marched in gangs to their day's work and back, the distance varying from five to ten miles. To change this system will be equal to the task of civilizing a tribe of African savages; and our English friends, who used to berate us for not abolishing Slavery at a day's notice, stand aghast at the magnitude of the task before them.

La Liberté, the French paper which not only pretends to be but generally is the best informed on American affairs, makes the following strange double blunder. It says:

> "During the war in America what did we see? On one side the South with all the regularly organized military forces; on the other, the North with only its people, obliged to organize themselves in haste. Which conquered? The North. Last year what did we see? On one side an admirable army—that Austrian army which we learned to respect in Italy; on the other the national militia, whose inexperience seemed to assure defeat, and whose certain routing was predicted by everybody competent to judge. Which conquered? The national militia."

Now, this may do very well to point the moral which La Liberté desires to enforce respecting the new French army organization, but unfortunately it won't hold water. On the contrary, the North had all of the regular army and the South none, though, except in the matter of officers, the number was so small as to speedily become insignificant as an element in the war. And again, in the late German war, the Austrian army under Benedek was not that army which the French had fought in Italy, but a mongrel and not well-disciplined horde of Croats, Hungarians, and other comparatively raw levies of conscripts, while the Prussian army was the army, and the gardes nationales mobilisées were called out, but scarcely came into action at all.

The Pall Mall Gazette prints a sensible article about the mischief done in this country by the offensive behavior of a class of English tourists,—"the same which so often makes the name of an Englishman odious on the Continent." Nothing is more striking, says the Gazette, than the contrast between the impressions of American life brought back to England by different classes of travelers. Some men return disgusted with everything democratic; others with "a feeling of warm personal liking for nearly every American they have known of any pretence to be a cultivated man, and with a strong desire to conciliate the Americans generally, not from fear of their power, but from a conviction of their possessing many good qualities which Englishmen ought to be the first to appreciate." The Gazette points out that in comparing Englishmen with Americans, "each class in the one country should be compared with the corresponding class in the other; and that to compare the manners and habits of American men and women rapidly put in possession of vast wealth with refined and cultivated men and women in England who have possessed every advantage of training that family, school, university and society could give them, is as absurd as to compare the mathematical acquirements of a senior wrangler with those of a national schoolmaster."

The movement to permit places of recreation for the poorer classes to be opened on Sunday, is pressed with great vigor in England, but without much prospect of success. Father Richardson, a noted temperance leader among the Irish Catholics in that country, has made an earnest appeal for opening of such places, where visitors will not be compelled to drink, as they are at the gin and beer gardens. He says if people could go to the Crystal Palace or zoological gardens—to such places as are open to them in every continental country—where no drinking is required, thousands would gather Sunday afternoons and evenings without drunkenness and disorder; but he despairs of preventing them from going to public houses, and drinking, until other places are open to them.

Old Prof. Ewald, of Gottingen University, has reason to consider himself a very ill-used man. He refuses to recognize the King of Prussia as ruler of Hanover, and won't take the oath of allegiance. The old gentleman expected that his refusal would be regarded as a high misdemeanor, and was preparing to enjoy all the honors of political martyrdom when, to his great mortification, he was officially informed that the Prussian authorities were entirely indifferent about his taking the oath. He might swear or not; and meanwhile his salary would be paid from the Prussian Treasury. This is certainly martyrdom, but not the sort coveted by the old gentleman, who doesn't relish being made the laughing-stock of Germany.

The Liberté—M. de Girardin's paper—ironically attempts to show the Parisians that the Mexican enterprise was not, after all, such a failure as it is supposed to have been. If the French troops had not captured San Luis Potosi they would never have found the huge meteorite, which Humboldt saw some fifty years ago, and which now enriches a scientific collection in Paris. This immense block weighs ever so many hundred pounds, and "if it were gold" would be worth ever so many millions of dollars. There is another and a bigger meteoric block at the same place, but the Liberté does not venture to suggest that a second expedition should be sent out to take possession of it.

A London newspaper says that Mormonism is in a very flourishing condition in Kennington, and that the Saints are rapidly increasing in numbers and influence. They give concerts and conversaziones in aid of the Salt Lake emigration fund, and find no difficulty in persuading young men and women to try their fortunes among the Saints of the holy city. It is to the credit of the American laboring classes that the Mormon missionaries find their converts chiefly among foreigners.

The wars of the ritualists are giving new hope to the faithful ones of the Church abroad. That renowned convert and brilliant clerical politician, Archbishop Manning, has solicited of the Pope an indulgence of one year to all who shall devoutly recite the Gloria Patri and Ave Maria with the intention of obtaining from God the entire and perfect conversion of the English nation to the obedience of the truth and to intimate reconciliation with the chair of St. Peter. The Pope has granted the prayer, and the Archbishop has published the rescript, expressing his hope for this union to the "Holy See, the Mistress of faith and truth."

AMUSEMENTS.

Italian Opera.

The closing night of Mr. Maretzek's regular subscription series, last evening, introduced Senora Peralta in the rôle of Lucia. After her successes in Amina and Elvira—those twin sisters of the operatic stage, which Bellini created for the benefit of light sopranos, with capacities and dispositions for ornamental fringing—it was to be expected that her success, in the entirely beautiful music that illustrates the third distraught heroine of his muse, which appeared happiest when it treated of mad lovers, must be as entirely complete as it was. The representation of the opera generally was equal to its performance when Mme. Parepa sustained the title rôle. Senora Peralta is to appear in Brooklyn on Thursday as Elvira, and at the closing matinée on Saturday next. This evening Miss Louise Kellogg's benefit occurs at the Academy, and the representation of the "Barber of Serville" will afford that entirely pleasing artist an appearance in her thoroughly charming rôle of Rosina.

Broadway Theatre.

It used to be said of Dr. Johnson that he never sent a story into the world without putting a cocked hat upon its head and a gold-headed cane in its hand; it is never expected now that Mr. Barney Williams can bring a new piece upon the stage without signing it with his shillalah and crowning it with a ragged hat. The play of "The Shamrock," which has been produced at the Broadway Theatre, affords Mr. and Mrs. Williams legitimate opportunities for displaying their abilities in the familiar paths. The piece is in three acts, and is of the ordinary class of Irish dramas so far as characters are concerned, and equals "Connie Soogah," "Shandy Maguire," and others, in perilous and improbable incidents. The author of "The Shamrock" appears to have performed the literary task described by Sterne of pouring water from one bottle into another.

Dramatic Notes.

Mr. Edmund Falconer, who has written some plays which have had a popularity in this country as well as his native country, is occupying the evenings this week at the Olympic Theatre, acting in two of his own dramas, "The Noble Revenge" and "The O'Flahertys." In lieu of any other comment it seems to us quite apropos to quote an observation made by Richard Steele, which is equally applicable to the new actor and to those who are with him in the performance at the Olympic: "Though a pleader or preacher," remarks Sir Richard, "is hoarse or awkward, the weight of their matter commands respect and attention; but in theatrical speaking, if the performer is not exactly proper and graceful, he is utterly ridiculous. In cases where there is little expected but the pleasure of the ears and eyes, the least diminution of that pleasure is the highest offence." Mr. Falconer does not appear to have any accurate appreciation of this truth.

Although, as Sidney Smith observed, "life has been most distressingly abbreviated by the flood," and existence in these days of telegraphs, railroads, &c., is rather too short to read a novel twice over, or to sit a performance, however good, twice through, yet on any evening during the present week, when a couple of hours are going begging for employment, they cannot be spent more pleasantly than in enjoying the costume concerts given by Mr. and Mrs. Howard Paul at Irving Hall. Mr. Paul has introduced a new song to the already interesting programme, with the title, "The Galloping Snob of Central Park." The closing entertainment will begin on Saturday evening.

Mme. Ristori will give the first of her six farewell performances under the present contract with Mr. Grau, at the French Theatre, on Thursday evening. Before Mme. Ristori departs, however, (May 18,) for Europe, she will give two or three entertainments for charitable purposes.

A troupe of Japanese athletes and jugglers are exciting the Baltimoreans to something of a frenzy this week. These are the same, we suppose, that performed their fanciful tricks before the President some days ago. They have been brought from Japan, and by express imperial permission. Prof. Risley and Mr. Interpreter Banks, who accompany them, state: Their feats of poising and of strength appear to create the greatest wonder. They are announced to succeed the opera at the Academy of Music next week.

POLITICAL SENTIMENT.

The Republican Party and the Confiscation Scheme of Mr. Stevens.

The protest of Mr. Thaddeus Stevens against the moderate and conciliatory policy represented by Senator Wilson in the South as that of the Republican Party, does not meet with a very cordial response on the part of the Republican Press.

The New-York Tribune of the 30th thus comments on the subject:

> "Able and eminent as Mr. Stevens is, his confiscation speech awoke no single echo in Congress. And his recent letter serves only to render more palpable the truth that Henry Wilson, in his speeches at the South, utters the sentiments of at least nine-tenths of the Republican Party.
> In a single contingency only, do Mr. Stevens' peculiar views threaten to assume importance. Should the Democratic minority in the present Congress serve his ends so thoroughly as they did in the last, he may be able somewhat to impede the admission of members from the States soon to be reconstructed. Thus the conditions of restoration were rendered far more onerous to the ex-rebels than a majority of the Republicans desired and prescribed. We have a strong hope that this 'little game' of the two extremes will not be repeated."

The Washington correspondent of the Boston Journal speaks to the same effect, and adds:

> "Other prominent Republicans have denounced Senator Wilson for having been conservative in his remarks, and for having paid a friendly visit to Jefferson Davis. In their opinion the white voters of the South should be ignored, and the colored men should not only be organized for political action, but should be encouraged to demand that the estates of all who participated in the rebellion should be confiscated and divided into homesteads for the freedmen. The assurances given by leading Congressmen in debating the Military Reconstruction Bill—that if the Southern States complied with requirements prescribed they would be readmitted—are now to be disregarded. The aspect of affairs is anything but encouraging to the loyal white inhabitants of the South. Should certain gentlemen control the events of the coming six months, President Johnson's proposed visit to Raleigh can but add to the complicated condition of political affairs at the South. He may counsel submission to the law of the land, but it is well known that he is opposed to the Congressional policy. Senator Wilson supports this Congressional policy; but he will soon be followed by Judge Kelly, Senator Nye, and others with radical views, who will virtually also oppose it. Another class of emissaries is also being sent South by the Radicals to organize the colored men there for political action. Mr. Conway has done this in Virginia and in North Carolina, and Capt. Hinton leaves here to-morrow to organize in Mississippi."

The Springfield (Mass.) Republican is still more direct and explicit in its denunciation of these disorganizing schemes. We copy its language on the subject—which it discusses under the head of

A CALL TO PERFIDY AND DISUNION.

> The people of the South are behaving quite too well to suit some of our folks. There is now a fair prospect that they will reconstruct promptly under the laws of Congress, accept equal suffrage as a fixed fact, elect loyal Representatives and Senators, and be ready to take part in the next Presidential election. This prospect satisfies the people generally, but it is too good to suit the special "Radicals"—more properly the ultras, who consider a state of perpetual disunion and war the most favorable for them. The personification of this political Ishmaelitism, Mr. Thad. Stevens, of Pennsylvania, is so vexed and alarmed at the prospect of restored Union and harmony, that he has given vent to a wild cry of warning, which will be echoed and reëchoed by the faction which he leads and inspires, and may be regarded as the rallying call to a new effort to perpetuate disunion. * *
> There are threats of such utter perfidy involved in these declarations of Mr. Stevens that they should be promptly repudiated by every Republican who cares for the honor and success of the party. To threaten punishment, confiscation and continued exclusion from Congress, after all the demands of Congress shall have been met, involves such a degree of bad faith and malignity that it is difficult to believe even Mr. Stevens sincere in it. It is clear that if such threats should be indorsed by a large number of the people of the North, the process of reconstruction would stop at once. The Southern people would fold their hands in despair, seeing no escape from utter ruin but through some divine interposition. And the idea of asking them to support a party thus threatening and degrading them would be monstrous. If Mr. Stevens has any theory looking to consequences it must be his aim to hold the South under military rule till this generation dies out. It is clear that he wishes the South to reject the reconstruction offered to them, and that he will do what he can to secure its defeat. He can do nothing more effectual to that end than to keep alive the ideas and spirit of his letter, and induce as many men as possible to accept it. We have tried to think Mr. Stevens honest in his course, but this present movement looks very much as if it were inspired by the conviction that if the Union is permitted to be restored his occupation will be gone, and all politicians who have maintained a vindictive policy will be obliged to stand aside. This may be a natural motive with him. But the Republican Party has quite another mission than the salvation of such men as Mr. Stevens from public neglect—certainly a higher destiny than to commit hari-kari for his sake. And if he and such as he think it advisable to press the issue upon the party, we have not the slightest doubt what the answer will be. The party will keep faith with the South. It will stand by its express and implicit pledges. It will restore the Union on the basis established by Congress, and admit loyal Representatives and Senators from the States as soon as they are reconstructed. If Mr. Stevens can prevent this then he is strong enough to destroy the Republican Party.

The Worcester Spy says that the card of Mr. Stevens "shows that he is sick and old, and not softened in his earnest desire to punish leading rebels." With reference to the question at issue it adds, that "Wilson's promises to the Virginians are sure to be made good if they act in good faith under the Congressional plan of reconstruction."

The Albany Evening Journal denounces, with unsparing severity, the attempt of Mr. Stevens to delay reconstruction. It says:

> "The Republican Party is pledged to the South that upon reconstruction under the terms of the Military Bill, it shall be accorded representation in Congress. This pledge will be carried into effect, whenever the preliminary conditions are complied with. Mr. Stevens says there 'is no Virginia.' The Unionists of the North fought four years to prove that there is a Virginia, and that Virginia is in the Union, amenable to its Constitution and its laws. It is too late now to abandon this position, or to expect that a Congress by which it has been so repeatedly indorsed, will falsify the logic of its own action. Mr. Stevens and the small but noisy clique who act with him, may desire to pursue the course of continued exclusion, confiscation and general 'punishment.' But the people will be satisfied with whatever promises most speedy reconstruction, so long as the vitality and sovereignty of the Union are insured."

Senator Dixon at Rome—His Speech in Reply to an Address of Welcome.

On Saturday last Senator Dixon returned to his home in Hartford, Conn., and was honored with a formal welcome. In reply to a brief address by Mayor Chapman, Senator Dixon rehearsed the history of legislation for the last two years,—saying he saw at an early day a purpose on the part of the Radicals to continue a state of disunion as long as their party purposes might require, and he determined, at whatever cost, to resist it. The late act of Congress, he says, has established a complete despotism over the South, and that, too, without necessity or excuse. He said he was not sure but that Reverdy Johnson was right in voting for the bill, on the ground that if it were not passed still worse outrages would be inflicted upon the Southern States. The South is absolutely powerless and must submit. In regard to the future Senator Dixon said two measures are already proposed by the Radical Party. The first was to create a black party at the South; to embody in one organized mass the whole black race, and induce them to cast their votes against the whites. The line to be drawn between parties is a line of color. Apparently, to accomplish this dangerous purpose, emissaries of distinction are now traversing the South. They may possibly deny the purpose, but the certain effect of their teachings is this. What a horrible state of things, should they succeed. If not a war of races, a conflict of races would be certain to ensue, and the black race, as well as the white, would be cruelly injured—and all for the purpose of extending for a few years the lease of power now in the hands of the disunion Radicals. This is one of their measures which should be rebuked by the whole North, as it has virtually been at your recent election.

The other avowed measure, which is certain to be pressed at the next session, is the threatened legislation of Congress to control and shape the right of suffrage in the Northern States. Two bills have already been introduced into the Senate of the United States to establish what is called universal suffrage in the whole North, including Connecticut. One of these bills was introduced by Mr. Sumner; the other by Mr. Wilson, of Massachusetts. Do you say Mr. Sumner is a theorist—not practical? But what will you say of Mr. Wilson? A more thoroughly practical man does not live. He attempts nothing which he does not believe he can carry out. Both these Senators will push this measure with all their power. Both believe in the constitutional power of Congress to enact suffrage laws for Connecticut and other States. So both have declared in debate in the Senate. In my opinion they have a fair chance of success, and it would not surprise me as much as I was surprised by the passage of the unconstitutional Military Bill, to see our State elections controlled by act of Congress, and this old Commonwealth, which had her own suffrage laws more than a century before this Federal Government existed, made to bow in humble submission to the mandates of the Radical majority in Congress. If you think such an apprehension unfounded, look at what has been already done and judge from that what may be expected in the future. If I had told you a year ago that the existing Military Reconstruction Bill would be passed in less than a year, you would have thought me attempting to impose on your credulity. Not twenty members of Congress then thought their vote in its favor a possibility. Yet it had the entire party vote. So I predict it will very probably be with the Suffrage Bill of the Massachusetts Senators. The party of progress will reach that position in the course of a year, and those who do not keep pace with them will be denounced as traitors and copperheads.

The address of Ex-Gov. Joseph E. Brown at Augusta, Ga., on Saturday afternoon last, was listened to by nearly a thousand persons, including many of the prominent citizens. It was mainly devoted, as were the speeches previously delivered by him in that State, to a presentation of the inducements for the Southern people to acquiesce in the requirements of Congress, and thus get back into the Union as quickly as possible. He said they were a conquered people, and they had only to submit or to leave the country. When they appealed to the sword they either went out of the Union, and the Government has now the right to deal with them as a conquered people; or else they did not secede, and were rebels, and liable to be dealt with as rebels. Of Gov. Jenkins, personally, he spoke in terms of praise, but he believed he had erred in appealing to the Supreme Court. On this point he said: "If we were a conquered people, out of the Union, it is hard to maintain our constitutional rights. If we are a foreign State, what right have we to file such a bill; or should they still refuse to accept the terms offered them, confiscation and the disfranchisement of every man who aided in the rebellion would follow, while the black men of the State, and the per se Union men of the State, would be left to form a State Government for them." Continuing, he said:

> "Among all the assaults that have been made upon our position, I have not seen one to show how we are going to get out of it—only to 'stand upon our dignity.' If we do that, will that save the country? If you won't go with me, how are you going to get out of the difficulty? How else are you going to reconstruct? How are you going to prevent the negro from voting? Can you prevent it by sacrificing your property? What results are to follow in your favor, if you resist the will of Congress? I want to see immediate reconstruction and universal amnesty. That is the line I stand upon, and I believe the course I am taking is the best way to get it. In a conference with Gen. Pope not long since, he said there is nothing more certain than that the whole Northern people would require us to comply with those terms, or terms much more odious. It is said that we cannot trust Congress at all, but Congress challenges us to show an instance in which they have broken their faith. They will need our vote as well as theirs, and we shall constitute an important element of power.

He urged the freedmen to remain on good terms with the whites, and to educate their children. To the whites he said:

> We must submit to it, or fight. If you don't intend to fight, why sit here and growl, and find fault with the decrees of Providence? You claim the protection of the Government. In claiming that protection is it honorable in you to be its enemy. In peace we should then be friends. If you want Northern capital to aid development, you must invite it, and in doing so, treat those whom you invite as your friends. You must look at things as they now are. Your old institutions have gone. Slavery is abolished. Start out anew. You must accommodate yourselves to the new order of things. You may say it is dishonorable to do otherwise. I think not. Are you not willing to imitate Generals Lee and Longstreet, and a dozen of our leaders? Come forward and register and vote. Invite all the capital you can, and let us believe that many of us may live to see the day that our children may be as prosperous and happy as they would have been under the old order of things. Let us press forward hopefully in the new era on which we have entered.

The Rice Crop.

One after another the marks of war upon the Southern land appear. At the North we seemed to get rather an abnormal impulse to excitable activity, but the hollow shell of the Confederacy kept out the fresh air and confined the decaying contents until it had well nigh been utterly gone. For two years the cotton crop has engaged the chief attention of the agriculturists of the South, and so intent have they been on this difficult work that even the short crops they have obtained were at the cost of much-needed breadstuffs, and the people starve. The next product that engages interest is the rice crop. The fields are pretty generally planted, and the rice well sprouting and giving fair prospects. But the dilapidation of buildings, the miserable condition of trunks and flood gates, and the occasional labor difficulties, make the cultivation of this cereal as yet a most uncertain work. Even at the best the present crop must be far below the product of other days, and both material help and moral encouragement are needed at the hands of the North to bring her other half up to her side again in the race against the world.

A Conflict of Authorities.

The Tribune gives the statements of the Rochester Democrat concerning the relations between Mr. Greeley and Mr. Dana, while the latter was on that journal, a very flat contradiction. With regard to the authorship of the "On to Richmond" articles it says that "Mr. Greeley never saw them until after they were printed in the Tribune, and upon another point of the discussion it says: "The funny fellow's assertion that Mr. Dana ever attempted or offered to 'suppress' anything written for these columns by the responsible editor of the Tribune is too gross even for Munchausen. There was never a shadow of foundation for it. Mr. Dana is nowise responsible for this Rochester man's monstrous inventions."

New Feature in the Express Business.

We learn that the establishment of the Merchants' Union Express Company, and the advantages the merchants and manufacturers of the Middle and Western States have derived from it, not only in the reduction in the rate of charges, but in the superior facilities resulting from sharp competition, is inducing the merchants in other sections to organize similar companies to connect with the one now in operation.

A new company to cover the Southern States, connecting at New-York and Cincinnati with the Merchants' Union, will soon be in operation.

A company is also soon to be organized in New-England which will connect at New-York with the Merchants' Union.

Stock for a similar company is being rapidly taken in Canada.

Each of the new companies will be organized on plans similar to that of the Merchants' Union, and will connect and act in coöperation with that Company, which will virtually extend their lines, by the system of interchange of business over the entire Union and Canadas.—Express.

STARR & MARCUS, No. 22 John-st., New-York.

Established 1832.
Improved 1866.

To the Public.

The marked favor and extended use which have signalized the introduction of Mrs. S. A. ALLEN'S Preparations for the Hair, throughout Europe, together with the immense sale they have had for over 30 years in America, has enabled the manufacturer to experiment and improve.

To supply a superior preparation at a low price is no easy task, but through recent discoveries both have been accomplished. Mrs. Allen has heretofore manufactured three preparations, put up in three different bottles; to combine successfully the three in one preparation, in one bottle, has been the study of years; it has been accomplished and the beautiful effect by this new preparation in quickly changing gray, white or faded hair to its natural color and beauty, inducing new growth, &c., &c., has gained for it hosts of friends, and is now regarded as a household necessity. This improved preparation is now the hair dressing as well as hair restorer.

The manufacturer, satisfied with the very much increased sale that the preparation is now having, is resolved to give the public their share of the discovery, and the retail price is from and after this time

REDUCED TO ONE DOLLAR PER BOTTLE.

The size of the bottle will remain same as heretofore, with an entirely different wrapper of elegant design, and printed on white paper.

NOTICE.—At the earnest solicitation of many old patrons I will continue to manufacture my Zylobalsamum same in every respect as the old preparation by that name, but the use is not required as formerly with my Restorer. The price of the Zylobalsamum remains same as heretofore, 75 cents per bottle.

THE UNION PACIFIC RAILROAD COMPANY.

Chartered by Congress, and having five Government Directors appointed by the President of the United States, offer their

FIRST MORTGAGE THIRTY-YEAR BONDS,

BEARING SIX PER CENT. INTEREST,
PAYABLE SEMI-ANNUALLY IN GOLD.

For sale through the

CONTINENTAL NATIONAL BANK,
NO. 7 NASSAU-ST.,
MESSRS. CLARK, DODGE & CO.,
BANKERS, NO. 51 WALL-ST.,
and JOHN J. CISCO & SON,
BANKERS, NO. 33 WALL-ST.

In the City of New-York,

at NINETY PER CENT. of their par value, with Accrued Interest.

These Bonds are secured by a FIRST MORTGAGE on the RAILROAD AND EQUIPMENT OF SIXTEEN THOUSAND DOLLARS PER MILE, much less than one-half the cost of the Road. THREE HUNDRED AND FIVE MILES have been completed in the most substantial manner, and fully equipped with rolling stock, locomotives, machine and car shops, engine houses and station buildings, built mostly of brick and has been

APPROVED AND ACCEPTED BY THE GOVERNMENT

after an examination and report by the Government Commissioners, and is now in successful operation.

The Company has on hand iron, ties and all other material sufficient to complete the road to the Rocky Mountains—a distance from Omaha of 517 miles—by the 1st of September, the time pledged for its completion by the contractor. TWELVE THOUSAND FIVE HUNDRED (12,500) ACRES OF LAND PER MILE are granted to the Company by the Government in addition to the subsidy of SIXTEEN THOUSAND DOLLARS OF GOVERNMENT BONDS FOR EACH MILE OF ROAD AS COMPLETED. The Chicago and Northwesten Railroad, now completed, connects with this Road at Omaha, and is doing a large business in passengers and freight.

The Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific, the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy, and the Hannibal and St. Joseph Railroad Companies expect to extend connecting links of road to Omaha during the next year, so that four Trunk Railroads from the East will soon greatly contribute to the business of this Road, and the Central Pacific being constructed with great energy from California to meet this Great National Railroad across the Continent in 1870 insure for it all the business, both passenger and freight, it can possibly accommodate. The interest on these Bonds being payable in gold, and the issue so small per mile, there can be no question as to their safety, and the Company has no hesitation in recommending them to the public. Arrangements are being made with the National Banks generally throughout the country for the accommodation of investors in these Bonds.

Hon. E. D. MORGAN and Hon. OAKES AMES, Trustees.

DR. VON EISENBERG

Begs to inform his patients and the public in general that in consequence of the disastrous fire at his late residence, in Broadway, which prevented him from attending to his professional duties, he has now opened his new, spacious and commodious Consulting Rooms at No. 251 5th-av., where he attends to all diseases of the Eye, Ear, Catarrh, Throat and Asthma.

Dr. Von Eisenberg has spared neither labor nor expense to add many additions and improvements to his

ÆSTHETICO-NEURALGICON,

The celebrated apparatus invented by

DR. VON EISENBERG,

For the cure of all diseases of the

EYE, EAR, CATARRH,

DISEASES OF THE THROAT, ASTHMA.

Affections of the Voice, Laryngeal, Bronchial and Pulmonary Complaints, Disordered Functions of the Digestive Organs.

Dr. Von Eisenberg has to state that in inviting the first authorities from the best Medical Colleges of New-York to witness the operation and effect of his extraordinary valuable invention, with its new and wonderful additions, it must be understood that it does not cure every ailment in the world, but it does cure all the diseases above enumerated, such as Impaired Sight, Noises in the Head, Discharges from the Ear, Deafness, Sore Throat, Chronic Catarrh in its worst stage, Lung and Liver Diseases, Inflammation of the Air Cells of the Lungs, restores the Nervous Power, Cures Consumption, Phthisis or wasting away.

Certainly, if we consider the various constitutions affected with the same disease, it is evident that each sufferer from the same disease requires quite a different treatment. It is therefore obvious that no physician can honestly undertake the treatment of any patient until he makes a thorough and sincere diagnosis and investigation.

As both Dioscorides and Galen say, "Sympathy and antipathy are two hinges upon which the whole model of physic turns. The physician who minds them not is like a door off its hooks, and is more like to do his patients harm than to cure them."

Thousands have been cured by one application of his Æsthetico-Neuralgicon. Dr. VON EISENBERG has no nostrum requiring secrecy to insure its efficacy, for his treatment is based on long experience, assiduous attention, continued and successful practice, and by his peculiar process he is enabled to restore the sufferer to his normal condition of health. Hundreds, it is well known, have come forward to testify publicly, that they were cured by a single application; and many, as they themselves express, have been actually saved from the grave.

Dr. VON EISENBERG feels (and not without reason) that to have invented a means to benefit afflicted mortals even to subdue the slightest disease, is to him a greater felicity than the riches of a Monte-Christo. As one of our most learned and immortal physicians says: "Since, however, the Great God hath allowed to few upon earth the mighty privilege of serving their kind to its benefit, and that only to those who are of earth's best mold.

Quis meliore, luto finxit præcordia Titan"

I must make up in good wishes what I want strength to effect in full.

"Just as it is a crime to murder a man, so it is the part of virtue and honesty to save our fellow-beings when we are able."

CONSUMPTION CURED.

NEW-YORK, Saturday, Jan 12, 1867.

To Dr. Von Eisenberg, No. 251 Fifth-av., New-York:

DEAR SIR: I think it but justice to thank you for the skill and kind attention which you have displayed in my case. As you are aware, I was suffering from consumption, or, as physicians call it, wasting away. I decidedly did not expect that your talent would enable me to write this letter, as every one thought I would not live when I came into your office. I had been suffering for a long time with pulmonary catarrhal disease, cough without expectoration, chills, coldness, lassitude, heaviness of the head, dryness and fullness of the nasal passage, a dull pain and sense of weight in the forehead, uneasiness in the eyes—at last the cough came on, with a frothy, viscid expectoration. I had sleepless nights, sickness of the stomach, a peculiar look in my eyes, hoarseness of voice and loss of appetite, combined with night sweats, which so weakened me at last that I was induced to seek your opinion. After your examination, I felt that you understood my case thoroughly, and readily put myself under your treatment; and the result shows that while you have displayed in my case the care and skill which gained for you so deservedly the golden opinions of the public, you have also evinced the knowledge and care of a considerate and experienced physician. May every blessing be showered on you, is the earnest wish of your grateful patient.

RIDDLE'S MODEL ARCHITECT.

DESIGNS FOR COUNTRY RESIDENCES. EVERY MAN HIS OWN ARCHITECT.
By JOHN RIDDELL.

Published this day and for sale by T. B. PETERSON & BROTHERS, No. 306 Chestnut-st., Philadelphia.

ARCHITECTURAL DESIGNS
FOR MODEL COUNTRY RESIDENCES.
Illustrated by Twenty-two Colored Drawings of Elevations and Forty-four Plates of Ground Plans, including First and Second Stories, accompanied by General Descriptions, Specifications and Estimates, prepared expressly for persons who contemplate building, and for artisans throughout the World.

By JOHN RIDDELL, Practical Architect.

This work gives a correct idea and estimate of building villas in the most approved style. Full specifications of all the items are given for first-class work, so that the cost shall not exceed the estimate furnished. The designs have been prepared in a style never before attempted in any work in this country or in Europe. The front elevations are drawn to a large scale of one-quarter of an inch to the foot, and colored in suitable tints, which adds greatly to the appearance of a rural residence. Particular attention is paid to the side views of each design. The plans of the first and second stories are drawn to the scale of one-eighth of an inch to the foot, and all the dimensions are accurately marked thereon. Great attention is given to the internal arrangements, in regard to the stairs, store-rooms, water-closets, bath-rooms and closets; also to heat, light and ventilation.

Many of the designs have been built, and have given perfect satisfaction to the owners; and in no instance has the cost exceeded the estimate. The author does not advise any one to dispense with an architect in consulting this work. It will be found of great value to both owner and builder, as there are many items and suggestions which are worth far more than the cost of the book.

It is published in one large royal folio volume, measuring eighteen by fifteen inches in size, and when opened being three feet, with twenty-two full-page front elevations, colored, and forty-four plates of ground plans, including the first and second stories, with plans of the stories, full specifications of all the articles used, and estimate of price, and the whole bound in one volume, in the strongest and most substantial manner.

SEVEN PER CENT.
FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS.
$2,000,000 IN COUPON BONDS OF $1,000 EACH.
TWENTY YEARS TO RUN.
PRINCIPAL AND INTEREST GUARANTEED BY THE ATLANTIC & PACIFIC RAILROAD CO.

And secured by property valued at $7,500,000, consisting of their completed road to the Gasconade River, 127 miles from St. Louis, and 330,000 acres of rich agricultural and mineral lands on its line. By a provision of the mortgage, so often as lands are sold to the amount of $40,000, this sum is to be funded for the redemption of a like amount of bonds, and the holders have the right at any time to take possession in payment of the PAR value of their bonds any of the Company's lands at schedule rates, mineral lands excepted.

The climate of Southwest Missouri is remarkably salubrious, the temperature even and the Winters short and mild. Its agricultural resources are not excelled by any part of the United States. Of its minerals, lead, iron and coal are found of superior qualities and in great abundance. The famous Granby lead mines on the Company's land are well known, and recent developments show that iron ore, purer than any yet known, lies along the line of the road in greater quantities than the total iron deposit of Pennsylvania.

The Company is now prepared to sell these lands at from $5 to $40 per acre.

By a recent arrangement this road becomes the Missouri division of the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad, which has a land grant of 55,000,000 acres, and will form a direct and continuous railway from St. Louis to San Francisco, shorter and of much easier gradients than any other route.

Of the present issue of bonds, a limited amount is now offered for sale at the rate of 80 per cent., subject to advance at the option of the Company.

STEAM.

THE HARRISON BOILER, having had a practical test for more than two years past among nearly every class of enterprise or work employing steam, and to an extent of power varying from 10 to 300 horses, is presented as embracing the following advantages:

It is absolutely free from destructive explosion.
It has no superior in saving fuel.
It is a rapid steam generator, and if required is made its own super-heater without extra apparatus.
It is easily transportable, and may be passed in sections through an ordinary doorway.
It may be enlarged to any required size without disturbing parts already erected.
It is safe from all incrustation, or any of the evils arising therefrom.
It is compact, neat and cleanly, and easily managed.
Nearly 300 of these boilers are in practical use.

The extensive introduction of this boiler in Philadelphia, where the works are situated, has induced its proprietor, JOSEPH HARRISON, Esq., to establish a branch office in this City, where circulars may be procured, a model be seen, and all information respecting it be obtained at Rooms Nos. 9 and 10, No. 119 Broadway, corner Cedar-st.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

MOVING DAY.

Signs of Promise—What the Watchmen Say They Are.

All of our readers are aware that the population of this island is subject to a peculiar and inexplicable mania, under the influence of which nearly every tenant on the 1st day of May insists upon the instant transfer of his household goods to some other domicile, to the great delight of landlords and the inordinate profit of carmen, who, by reason of this temporary insanity, compressing the demand of a year into a single day, are enabled to obtain prices that otherwise they would be utterly unable to compass. Having no prejudice whatever against these two highly respectable classes of the community, but believing they have had a full number of years of this sort of thing, we note with pleasure certain symptoms that this disease has run its course, and that very shortly our citizens will be as sane on May Day as during the remainder of the year. These symptoms are slight, to be sure, but they are nevertheless decided. The most important is the fact discovered by the observations of the Police, that moving has been going on to a great extent during the past three weeks, and that on this dreaded May Day there will be nothing left as prey for the carmen save a few of the stragglers of the great army of peripatetic penates. Our people, this season, have indeed been afflicted with the desire for a change of habitation; for we learn, through the same ubiquitous police, that there has never been so much moving in the City as this Spring; but the mania has not this time seized upon the entire population at once, and that is a hopeful sign that very shortly May Day in New-York will cease to turn the City inside out, and send all our household goods tottering through the streets on over-loaded vans which play the part of iconoclast with disagreeable vigor and success.

That there has been this year an unusually large egress from the City of families, is proved by the fact that there is at this late day a very large number of houses still to let; that, in fact, the tables are turned, and houses are now searching tenants and not tenants looking for houses. The number of houses now empty, or to be so in the next few days, is stated as high as 15,000, and although it is impossible to obtain exact figures it is not probable that this estimate is very extravagant. This plethora of empty houses is as true of Brooklyn and Williamsburgh as of this City. Within a space of three blocks upon one of the desirable streets of Brooklyn no less than six houses were observed on one side of the street alone bearing the legend "To Let," and in every instance the inscription had failed to produce the effect usual upon the 30th of April, of attracting around the house a crowd of house-hunters. In this City the label is still to be seen upon many houses in all parts of the island, and nothing is more certain than that this Spring New-York has disgorged thousands of her residents into the country surrounding, where landlords cease from troubling, and tenants are at rest—on May Day.

It is reported, upon the authority of several of the fraternity, that the carmen intend to-day to charge $15 per load for breaking—we beg pardon, moving—furniture, and it is therefore pleasant to believe, as we do, from the facts obtained at Police Headquarters, that there will be no extraordinary demand for their services, and that for once their usual combination will fail to accomplish its purpose. Last week the carmen were charging $3 50 per load for the same service that they will demand three and four times as much for to-day, and it can scarcely be called cruelty to refuse them sympathy should the public to-day be in condition to greet them with the rowdy cry, "Don't you wish you may get it."

THE GARDINER WILL CASE.

Verdict in Favor of David L. Gardiner—The Will Declared Void.

This interesting case, which has been on trial for the last week in the Richmond County Circuit Court, before Judge Lott and a jury, has been terminated, so far as that Court at least is concerned, by the jury rendering a verdict for the plaintiff on all the issues. Reports of this trial have been published in the Times from day to day since its commencement on Wednesday last.

The issues involved were submitted to the jury under the charge of Judge Lott, at about 7 P. M. on Monday, when they retired for consultation. At about midnight the jury returned into Court, which had been held open to receive the verdict, with the following answers to the interrogatories. In order that our readers may understand the issues, as previously settled by the Court at Special Term, upon which the jury were called to pass, we give them in the order in which they were stated, together with the answers of the jurors to each.

1. Was Juliana Gardiner at the time of executing and publishing the instrument in writing, bearing date Oct. 4, 1864, purporting to be her last will and testament, a copy whereof is set out in the complaint in the action, of sound and disposing mind, memory and understanding?

The jury answer, "No."

2. Was the said instrument of Oct. 4, 1864, purporting to be the last will and testament of Juliana Gardiner, procured by Julia G. Tyler by fraud or undue influence?

The jury answer, "Yes."

3. Did Juliana Gardiner, by the said instrument in writing, bearing date Oct. 4, 1864, purporting to be her last will and testament, devise her real estate to the persons, for the estates, upon the condition, and to the effect declared and expressed in the said instrument and writing?

The jury answer, "No."

4. Did the said Juliana Gardiner, deceased, die intestate as to her real estate, without having made any devise of the same, or any part thereof, as in the said complaint alleged?

The jury answer, "Yes."

On the rendition of this verdict Mr. Evarts, one of the counsel for the defendant, moved to set aside the verdict and for a new trial on the Judge's minutes. He contended the verdict was against the weight of evidence. The Court denied the motion. Counsel then gave notice that he should take an appeal from this decision to the General Term. The Court granted defendant time in which to prepare a case on appeal.

RACKETS.

The Four-handed Racket Match.

The four-handed match at rackets between Frederick Foulkes and William Devoe, the champion and ex-champion players of America, and William Gray, the champion of Great Britain, and his youthful brother, Joseph Gray, was played in the New-York Club Racket Court yesterday afternoon. The match was originally made for $300 a side, the proceeds of admission ($5 a ticket) being for the benefit of the champions, Messrs. Foulkes and Gray, and it was intended to have been played on Saturday last. The rain, however, caused a postponement until yesterday, and although the conditions of the match specified a "good day and court," yet, as the number of parties assembled was large, it was determined to play the match, notwithstanding the rain and bad state of the court, but that the stakes and all outside bets should be drawn. The play exhibited by all the players was brilliant in the extreme, but the American representatives proved the victors. Messrs. Foulkes and Devoe won the first game by a score of 15 aces to 13, the third by 15 to 5, the fourth by 15 to 13 and the sixth by 15 to 7, the Brothers Gray winning the second and fifth by scores of 15 aces to 13 and 15 to 12 respectively. It is probable another match between Gray and Foulkes will be arranged.

Board of Aldermen.

The Board met at 4 P. M. yesterday, Mr. Shannon in the Chair.

A resolution to permit Courtlandt Palmer to construct a bay window to his house, was referred to the Committee on Law.

Mr. Norton offered the following resolutions in relation to the license ordinance controversy:

Resolved, That the Counsel to the Corporation be and he is hereby authorized and directed to second the efforts of His Honor the Mayor by every legal means in his power in conducting to a final determination, before the Supreme Court of the United States, if necessary, the question in controversy between the City of New-York, by the corporate authorities, and the Legislature of the State, by its Board of Metropolitan Police Commissioners; and be it further

Resolved, That His Honor the Mayor be and he is hereby authorized to employ such other counsel as in his judgment may be necessary in protecting and defending the corporate rights of this City, thus further imperiled by this new attempt at usurpation by the Legislature of this State.

The resolutions were adopted.

A resolution from the other Board authorizing the publication of 10,000 copies of the Corporation Manual, was laid over.

A resolution to extend Fifth-avenue to the Battery was presented by Mr. Loew.

Mr. Hardy said he was indisposed to take part in any more public improvements, as the public appeared to be opposed to any improvement suggested by the Common Council. He hoped, at any rate, the matter would be referred to a Committee and thoroughly investigated before being acted on.

The resolution was referred to a Special Committee consisting of Messrs. Loew, Coman and Hardy.

The Board then adjourned to Thursday next, at 4 P. M.

The Street-Cleaning Commission.

The Commission met yesterday. A communication from Mr. W. G. [illegible], of Harlem, was read, complaining that for more than a year Third-avenue, from One Hundred and Ninth-street to Harlem River, has not been swept.

The contractor, who was present, said that he did not consider himself bound by his contract to sweep streets paved since the contract was signed.

The Counsel to the Corporation thereupon offered the following, which was adopted:

Whereas, It has been reported to this Commission that some of the Third-avenue, from One Hundred and Ninth-street to Harlem River, has been unswept for nearly a year; and

Whereas, The contractor has stated his opinion that he is not bound under the contract to sweep the same, or any other of the streets not paved at the date of the contract;

Resolved, That the contractor be informed that it is the unanimous opinion of the Commission that he is bound under said contract to sweep all the streets of the City of New-York, whether the same were paved at the date of the contract or since, and that he be directed to sweep the same.

The resolution was adopted and the Commission adjourned.

Vital Statistics.

The total number of deaths recorded in this City for last week, was 405, being one less than the number reported in the previous week, and 47 less than in the corresponding week of last year. Dr. Harris furnishes the following review of the record for the week:

"In the week ending April 27, there were 405 deaths in New-York, including 73 in public institutions—50 of them being in the Island hospitals. There were 105 deaths in Brooklyn, exclusive of the Kings County institutions. This mortality is equivalent to a yearly death-rate of 27.41 per 1,000 living in New-York, and of 18.40 per 1,000 in Brooklyn, by census of 1865. Zymotic causes destroyed 105 lives in New-York institutions, and 22 in Brooklyn; or 25.90 per cent of all who died in the former, and 18.80 per cent. of all deaths in the latter city. There perished in the first year of infancy 120 in New-York, or 29.62 per cent. of the dead from all causes, and 35 in Brooklyn, or 29.91 of the total list. There were 206 deaths of children under five years of age in New-York, or 50.86 per cent. of all the dead, and 52, or 44.44 per cent. in Brooklyn. Scarlatina and measles destroyed 37 lives, principally in the Fourth and Seventh Wards in New-York, and 12 in Brooklyn, 6 of the deaths being in the Eighth and Ninth Wards. Typhus and typhoid destroyed 14 lives in New-York and but one in Brooklyn. Diarrhœal diseases took 15 lives in the former and but 2 in the latter city. The constitutional and local inflammatory diseases, so-called, were the chief causes of mortality in both cities, and the zymotic diseases increased slightly upon the previous weeks of the month, and they scarcely varied from the records of the corresponding week of the preceding year. The 6 deaths from puerperal infections, and the 4 from erysipelas, will not be disregarded by physicians. The operation of fatal diseases last week was, as usual, very unequally distributed through the different wards of New-York. If we compare the population and the death-rates of the salubrious and the insalubrious districts, that is, of the well-housed, cleanly and well-fed, to the badly housed, uncleanly tenant-house population, we find their death records last week to read as follows: In the First, Fourth, Sixth, Seventh, Eighth and Eleventh Wards, containing a population of 172,971, there were 101 deaths, mostly from preventable causes, and more than half were of children under five years old. In the Fifteenth Ward, containing a population of 25,572, there were only 9 deaths from these causes."

Thus we find in a population of 172,971, (by census,) dwelling in six of the tenant-house wards, that are here selected for fairness of illustration, there were 107 deaths, mostly from preventable causes, and more than half were children under 5 years of age. The death-rate on population in those six unhealthy wards was equal to 34½ per 1,000 annually, while in the Fifteenth Ward, with an unusual mortality there, owing to the presence of infectious erysipelas, the rate was only equal to 14 1-5 per 1,000. Then there are crowded and filthy sections of the Tenth, Sixteenth, Seventeenth, Eighteenth, and other up-town Wards in which death is kept up in the same way and equally as high as in the average of the six we have mentioned, while in their cleanly and well-housed portions, away from filthy flanks of the wards, the chances of life are as good as in the much quoted Fifteenth. These records help us to understand the practical value of pure air, and they show why the mute appeal of the dead in the homes of the laboring classes has been heard, and why an honest laboring man in the Legislature became the successful advocate of the Tenant-house Reform Act.

The mortality reports from other great cities compare favorably to this metropolis. In the first week of April London had a death-rate equal to 25 per 1,000; Edinburgh, 28; Dublin, 28; Liverpool, 29; and in Vienna (the previous week) the rate was 35 per 1,000 annually. Cholera was not reported in last returns by any of the cities mentioned. We may reasonably expect that commercial towns in the Mississippi Valley will this year be the only sources whence the cholera will be transported to us. But the Western and Southern cities are alive to the duty of suppressing, by active means, every cause of the epidemic. Civic cleanliness and the prompt care of the sick begin to take their just rank as cardinal virtues.

Funeral of Admiral Ringgold.

The funeral services of the late Rear-Admiral Cadwalader Ringgold, of the United States Navy, will take place to-day (1st of May) at 1 o'clock, at Trinity Church. The remains, accompanied by a naval and military escort, will move at 12 o'clock from his late residence, No. 33 Union-square, down Broadway to the church. After the services the body will be taken to Baltimore, for interment in the Green Mount Cemetery, and will there be placed next adjoining to the remains of his brother, the gallant Major Ringgold, who fell at the battle of Palo Alto.

Admiral Bell has issued the following order:

COMMANDANT'S OFFICE, NAVY-YARD,
NEW-YORK, April 30, 1867.

Died yesterday, 29th inst., at 4 P. M., Rear Admiral Cadwalader Ringgold, U. S. N.

The officers of the Navy, Army and Marine Corps are invited to attend his funeral, from his late residence, No. 33 Union-place, near Sixteenth-st., to-morrow, May 1, at 11:30 A. M.

The officers will please attend in undress uniform, with swords.

CHAS. H. BELL,
Rear Admiral U. S. N.,
Commanding Navy-yard Station, New-York.

Ladies' Southern Relief Association.

This association is in the receipt of many letters from the South speaking of the suffering there, and of the good done by the contributions sent. Rev. John D. Easter, of Tuscaloosa, Ala., writes:

"I expended for provisions in Mobile, and authorized my Committee of ladies to give employment to all who applied for it, and pay them in provisions. Their labor is used in clothing others, who are not able to work. Our work has extended to the county north of us for a distance of fifteen miles. Feeble old women come that distance on foot, and carry back the small quantity of food we are able to give them. Very few ask for alms; almost all want employment. The relief given has been exclusively to women dependent on their own labor, or to helpless invalids and children. * * * * I am sure, in some cases positive famine has been prevented by your bounty. * * * * If the ladies of your association could stand by me for a few days, and see those who come to ask for help, or go to some of those who are not able to seek it, I am sure they would feel abundantly rewarded for your self-denying labors. There is a class of sufferers whose cases cannot be reached with the means at our disposal. They are persons owning good lands, but, owing to the failure of the crops for two years past, without provisions to support them until another crop can be made."

POLICE COURTS.

THE TOMBS—COMAN, ALDERMAN.

JUVENILE BURGLARS.

On Saturday night the rear basement of No. 239 Centre-street, occupied by Michael Callahan, was entered by burglars, and a quantity of gold leaf valued at $65 and some other articles carried off. Officers Mulligan, Kent and Conklin, of the Fourteenth Precinct, succeeded yesterday in arresting four boys named James Murtha, James P. Donegan, Thos. Owens and Martin Winters on suspicion of being concerned in the burglary. The greater part of the property was traced to their possession, and one of the prisoners confessed his guilt. The prisoners were remanded and will probably be sent to the House of Refuge.

LARCENY OF UNITED STATES NOTES.

James McGuire entered John Van Deventer's store, No. 232 Greenwich-street, yesterday afternoon, and cautiously approaching a desk, opened it with a false key and stole $50 therefrom. Before the adroit thief could escape the proprietor discovered and intercepted him. Officer Berry, of the Third Precinct, arrested the culprit and conveyed him before the acting magistrate, who remanded him for examination. Three skeleton keys were found in his possession.

CRUELTY TO ANIMALS.

John Whalen, an omnibus driver, and John Smith were arrested yesterday on charges of cruelty to animals in driving diseased horses. Both were held for trial in default of bail.

THE LOOMIS EMBEZZLEMENT CASE.

Justice Dowling continued ill yesterday, so the proposed examination of Theodore H. Loomis, who stands charged with the embezzlement of $5,000 in compound interest notes from his former employers, Messrs. Carter & Hawley, of No. 60 Beaver-street, was postponed until Saturday next, when it is hoped the Justice will be able to resume his seat.

A NEW CASE OF EMBEZZLEMENT.

Capt. Jourdan, of the Sixth Precinct, arrested Wm. H. Shields, aged 17 years, yesterday, on a charge of embezzlement. It appears that Shields has been in the employ of A. T. Stewart & Co., in Broadway, as a porter, and Mr. John W. Mallon, another employe, testified that he gave the prisoner three parcels of goods, valued at $52 25, to deliver to customers, and to collect the bills for the firm. Instead of doing as he was ordered, Shields appropriated the proceeds of the collection to his own use. The accused was held for trial in default of $1,000 bail.

POLICE HEADQUARTERS—BULL, JUSTICE.

No cases of interest or importance appeared in this Court yesterday, the acting magistrate discharging all but three, who were fined for intoxication. After to-day prisoners refused by Police Magistrates will be taken before some one of the civil Justices, at their Courts, for examination and disposal.

JEFFERSON MARKET—DODGE, JUSTICE.

ALLEGED SEDUCTION AND ABORTION.

A physician named James Hadden, having an office at No. 119 Charles-street, was yesterday arrested upon the complaint of a young woman named Augusta C. Davis, who resides at No. 736 Washington-street, and who charges that in December last the prisoner seduced her under promise of marriage, and in the month of February following produced an abortion upon her. The accused was committed in default of the required bail.

EXCISE CASE.

Richard Smith, of No. 120 Greene-street, was taken before the magistrate upon the charge of selling liquor within the proscribed hours of yesterday morning. He was bailed to answer.

VIOLATING HEALTH ORDINANCES.

John E. Pheasant was arraigned for driving sheep through Madison-avenue at 9 o'clock in the morning.... Michael Gleason was arrested for dumping manure into an open lot in the Eleventh-avenue, between Thirty-seventh and Thirty-eighth streets. Both the prisoners were held for trial.

CAUGHT IN THE ACT.

David Carver, of No. 135 Varick-street, charged Charles Lindeman with stealing $115 worth of clothing from his room on Tuesday night. The thief was seen to leave the house with his booty by a passer-by, Mr. Samuel G. Jackson, who followed him and caused his arrest. The accused was committed in default of bail.

ESSEX MARKET—SHANDLEY, JUSTICE.

ALLEGED BURGLARY.

A man named Charles Hirschbeck was arrested and taken to Court upon a charge of burglary. The complainant, Robt. B. Hurd, of No. 138 Canal-street, alleges that the prisoner entered his sail-loft at No. 1 Broome-street on Friday night, and stole therefrom a quantity of silks valued at $423, with which he escaped, but was subsequently apprehended by the Police. The prisoner could not furnish bail, and was accordingly committed for trial.

YORKVILLE COURT—CONNOLLY, JUSTICE.

ALLEGED CONSPIRACY.

Wm. Elliott, a resident of the town of South East, Putnam County, in this State, yesterday, appeared before the magistrate and made oath to the statement that some time since three parties, Adam Dippell, and Frederick Weyman and his wife Lena, entered into a partnership together for the purpose of dealing in cattle. That they purchased about $600 worth of live stock from him, and about $6,000 worth from other parties, and then failed, and thereby defrauded their creditors of their dues. This the complainant claims was done with a purpose to cheat and swindle, and that they intended when the partnership was formed and the cattle purchased. The only one of the accused who has been arrested is Weyman, who furnished the required bail of $3,000, to answer. Counsel for the defendants alleges that the complaint is groundless, as will be shown at the examination on Tuesday next.

Note from Justice Connolly.

POLICE COURT, FOURTH DISTRICT,
EAST FIFTY-SEVENTH-STREET,
NEAR THIRD-AVENUE, NEW-YORK, April 30, 1867.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

The statements of the public Press in relation to prisoners taken to and detained at the Police Headquarters in Mulberry-street omit to mention the fact that this Court is constantly in session during the hours prescribed by law; and that the high-handed acts of the Police in compelling persons under arrest to pass by the Court-house and be taken some three miles away to be kept in confinement, without a hearing, from morning until night, are so many violations of the law, which says: "In all cases where persons are arrested upon criminal charges they shall, with as little delay as possible, be conducted before a magistrate, to be dealt with as the law directs." The only reason offered for the perpetration of these outrages is, that I have dared, in some instances, to interdict the exercise of despotic powers over innocent and unoffending citizens—to gratify the private malice of bad men in authority. That malice can now be fully satiated through the "Star-chamber" inquisition they have illegally established under their own immediate supervision.

Respectfully yours,
MICHAEL CONNOLLY, Police Justice.

GENERAL CITY NEWS.

Excise Business.—A number of licenses were issued yesterday by the officers of the Excise Board. Most of the licenses of last year were issued in May, hence the pressure of business falls due about this time. Many applications for license were decided upon adversely to the applicants. The indications at present are that the number of licenses granted will be greatly diminished this year, as the Board is proceeding with great caution in the examination of the character of applicants and the reputation of their houses. Hundreds who applied for license last year have long since abandoned the business, having no hope of being able to convince the Commissioners that they kept orderly houses in view of the fact that they were continually under the eye of the Police. Next week the Board of Health will begin to hold its weekly meetings on Tuesdays instead of Thursdays, leaving Thursdays to be devoted exclusively to the excise business.

Fire in South-street.—Shortly before 8 o'clock last evening a fire broke out on the first floor of the five-story brick building No. 155 South-street, occupied by Davis & Richmond, storage. The other occupants of the building are: Wm. J. Brown, manufacturer of friction matches; Randall & Co., shipping office; C. M. Spooner & Co., varnish manufacturers; Kingsbury & Co., shipping office. The firemen worked vigorously, and soon succeeded in mastering the flames. Messrs. Davis & Richmond are the principal losers—their stock being damaged to the amount of about $800; insured fully in the Market and Relief Companies of this City. The building, which is owned by James H. Banker, was damaged to the extent of about $1,500, on which there is said to be a full insurance. The cause of the fire was not ascertained.

Funeral of Rear-Admiral Ringgold.—The funeral of Rear-Admiral Ringgold will take place at Trinity Church at 1 P. M. to-day. The remains, accompanied by a naval and military escort, will be taken from the late residence of the deceased, No. 33 Union-square, down Broadway to the church. After the services the body will be conveyed to Baltimore for interment in the Green Mount Cemetery, and will there be placed near the remains of the Admiral's brother, Major Ringgold, who fell at the battle of Palo Alto. Rear-Admiral Bell, commandant at the Brooklyn Navy-yard, has issued an order requesting officers to attend the funeral, in "undress uniform, with swords."

The Importance of a Cypher.—A correspondent, referring to a paper by Dr. Holden, on the resources of California, printed in the Times, wants to know if 8,000,000 pounds of wool clipped from 200,000 sheep is not rather steep even for California. We should say it was, but if the statement had been printed with another cypher to the number of sheep it would not have been unreasonable even out of California. A similar typographical error occurred in another portion of the paper, where it was stated that the tax on the manufactures of California amounted to $200,000, when it should have been $2,000,000.

Attempted Suicide by a Woman.—At an early hour yesterday morning Mrs. Emma Clark, of No. 265 Sixth-avenue, who was partially deranged, left her home, and could not be found by her relatives. While they were making a search for the unfortunate lady a telegram arrived at the Central Office from the Eighteenth Precinct Police, stating that Mrs. Clark had attempted suicide by jumping off one of the East Twenty-third-street ferry-boats, while in midstream. She was rescued with considerable difficulty and restored to her relatives. Mrs. Clark is 44 years of age.

Fatal Accident on the New-Haven Railroad.—About 10 o'clock yesterday morning, as the New-Haven Express came in on Fourth-avenue, between One Hundred and Seventh and One Hundred and Eighth streets, the locomotive struck and ran over an old man named —— Carr, when he was instantly killed. The remains were removed to the late residence of deceased, in One Hundred and Fourteenth-street, near Seventh-avenue, and Coroner Schirmer notified to hold an inquest.

Reading for Seamen.—During the past month 329 seamen registered their names for the first time in the Reading-room of the New-York Port Society, and the whole number of sea-faring visitors for April was 1,609, 210 of whom wrote letters to their friends. The Society loans libraries to sea-going vessels, accompanied by packages of papers and tracts. A seaman returned to this port a few days since who had taken out such a package, and by frequent perusal had committed a large portion of it to memory.

The Postal Car System.—The postal car system has lately been put in operation on the Erie Railroad with perfect success. The system, which has been for the last ten or twelve years in operation in Europe, has only been introduced here quite recently. On the route between Baltimore and Washington, and on the Cleveland, Columbus and Cincinnati Road the system works well. It will shortly be extended to all the principal mail routes.

Suicide in a Parlor.—At an early hour yesterday forenoon Abraham Hauser, a dry goods peddler, committed suicide by deliberately hanging himself in his parlor, at No. 371 East Fourth-street. It is understood that the motive for the act was a failure in business. Deceased was a native of Germany, and leaves a widow and ten children wholly unprovided for. Coroner Gamble will hold the inquest.

Fatal Scaffold Accident.—On Monday afternoon John Lang, employed as a bricklayer on the roof of a new six-story building in Fourteenth-street, near Avenue A, lost his footing and fell to the pavement beneath, receiving such severe injuries that he died while being conveyed to Bellevue Hospital. Coroner Schirmer held an inquest yesterday, when a verdict of accidental death was rendered.

Concert This Evening.—A concert will be given this evening by the Bible Class of the Forsyth-street Methodist Church, (near Division-street,) assisted by little Florence Reynolds, Mr. Phillip Phillips, and others. A very attractive programme will be presented, and judging by present indications the house will be crowded.

Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.—The annual meeting and election of officers of this Society will be held at their new rooms, No. 696 Broadway, corner of Fourth-street, on Thursday evening, at 8 o'clock, when the annual reports of the Executive Committee, Secretary and Treasurer will be presented.

Academy of Design.—The Council of the Academy have determined to open the galleries free every Saturday (until further notice) from 9 o'clock in the morning until dusk. On Saturday nights, and at all other times, the galleries will be open at the usual admission prices.

Anniversary of the Howard Mission.—The anniversary of the Howard Mission will be celebrated at Steinway Hall this evening. A grand concert forms part of the programme.

Launch.—Mr. Pierre Lorillard's schooner will be launched from the Westervelt shipyard, foot of Houston-street, East River, on Thursday, at 8:30 A. M.

BROOKLYN NEWS.

Fatal Accident.—Yesterday morning, a workman named John Nieuman, employed on Woodruff & Robinson's wharf, in raising a scaffold, was precipitated into the river by the sudden giving way of the structure. Every effort was made to rescue the man, but without avail. The body was recovered and the Coroner held an inquest. A verdict in accordance with the facts was rendered. The family of deceased resides in William-street, South Brooklyn, to which place the body was conveyed.

The Brooklyn City Court.—Judge George Thompson will take his official position as City Judge to-day (the 1st of May.) Joseph T. Sackett has been appointed Chief Clerk; Aubrey Snedeker, Deputy Sheriff; Constables George Colgan, William Lynch, P. McGlynn, I. Flint, G. W. Smock and J. V. Bogart. The active business of the Court will be taken up on Monday next, when the term calendar will be called.

The Second Collection District.—Theophilus C. Callicott, the newly appointed Collector of Internal Revenue for the Second District, has appointed John S. Allen as Deputy, and John Hanley as storekeeper.... Mr. Wellwood, appointed as Assessor in the place of Hon. Wm. E. Robinson, for the Third District, has made no new appointments as yet, and will probably retain his present assistants.

The New Post-office.—The Post-office will be removed to-day (May 1) from Montague-street, opposite the Academy of Music, to the new building recently erected in Washington-street, near Myrtle-avenue. The rooms are much larger than in the old building, and the situation will be fully as convenient to the public of Brooklyn as the place about to be vacated.

Accident by Fire.—A woman named Jane Jeffers was severely burned at the house of Mrs. Sheppard, No. 229 Front-street, yesterday morning, by her clothing taking fire from the stove while engaged in washing. She was conveyed to the City Hospital, and thence to her residence in Flatbush-avenue.

NEW-JERSEY.

New-Jersey News in Brief.—A Committee of clergymen and others of Newark have been engaged for some time past in gathering facts with respect to the making, vending and drinking of intoxicating liquors in that city, which will soon be made public.... The people of Newark will hold a public meeting next week to devise plans for the better observance of the Sabbath, and to prevent the sale of liquor.... The German Hospital Aid Society at Newark have thus far raised the sum of $7,000 for the erection of a Hospital in that city.... The ladies of Hoboken are circulating a petition for signatures amongst their own sex to be presented to Judge Bedle asking to have the State law enforced prohibiting the sale of liquor in that city on the Sabbath.

The Northern Convocation of New-Jersey.—The April session of the Northern Convocation of New-Jersey was commenced in St. Paul's Church, Newark, on Monday evening, at which Rev. R. A. Poole, of Long Branch, Rev. Mr. Thorpe, of West Hoboken, Rev. Mr. Hepburn and Rev. J. N. Stansberry took part in the services. Yesterday forenoon an able sermon was preached by Rev. Mr. Farrington, of Hackensack, on the Resurrection of the Body, and the Communion was administered. At the services last evening missionary addresses were delivered by Dr. Abercrombie and others.

Alleged Embezzlement.—A drug clerk named John Watson, in the employ of Thomas M. Tillis, proprietor of the drug-store No. 239 Newark-avenue, Jersey City, was arrested yesterday afternoon by Detective Nugent, charged with having been detected in the act of stealing a small sum of money from the till. Watson has been employed in the store about six months, during which time, according to the amount of business transacted, the receipts have been disproportionate, and it is believed that from $300 to $400 have been embezzled. The accused was committed for trial.

Felonious Assault.—Justice White, of Hoboken, yesterday issued a warrant for the arrest of John W. Beachele, charged with committing a felonious assault on Mrs. Catharine Schraeder, of Guttenburgh, by striking and otherwise illtreating her.

A Boy Incendiary.—Orrin White, the boy incendiary, now in jail in this city for firing the stable of the Merchants' Union Express Company on Friday night, is a most singular specimen of the boy genus. He is only 9 years old, small for his age, being not over four feet in height, has very large "bulging" gray eyes, and seems to be morally depraved to an extent almost unaccountable in one so young. He has expressed himself entirely satisfied at remaining in jail, and his only idea of the penalty he has incurred seems embodied in his fears that if he confesses to firing the Methodist Episcopal Church, which was burned on Tuesday night of last week, he will be hanged, of which he appears to have a wholesome fear, although it is not strong enough to cure him of a mania for burning buildings. He has a passion for fires, carries matches habitually, and confesses attempting at various times the firing of numerous barns, workshops and other structures.—Auburn Advertiser & Union.

PARIS LONDON

BY THE USE OF HOFF'S MALT EXTRACT.

IT STIMULATES SO LITTLE THAT THERE IS NO UNPLEASANT REACTION.

I have been a sufferer for many years from NERVOUS DYSPEPSIA and CHRONIC SORE THROAT. My daughter, Mrs. STEPHENSON, of No. 16 Buckingham-st., Hartford—who is also an invalid—whom I persuaded to send for some of Hoff's Malt Extract, gave me three or four bottles, and I AM SO MUCH PLEASED WITH ITS EFFECTS that I wish to give it a trial. I have tried so many things without benefit that I have become quite discouraged. I FELT the NEED of something to strengthen me, but all kinds of ALE, PORTER and WINE, DISAGREE with ME; but Hoff's Malt Extract is just the THING I need; IT STIMULATES SO LITTLE THAT THERE IS NO UNPLEASANT REACTION, AND DOES NOT TURN ACID UPON the STOMACH. (Follows order.)

MRS. H. L. CHAMPLIN.

ESSEX, Conn., April 18, 1867.

RESTORATION OF A CONFIRMED INVALID.

My husband, Mr. E. S. Stephenson, No. 91½ Wall-st., hearing from Mr. WILLIAM MOLLER such a good recommendation of Hoff's Malt Extract Beverage of Health, decided to send me six bottles to try it. Am, I fear, a confirmed INVALID; have used PORTER and ALE until they have lost all good effect, and no MEDICINE seems to benefit me, but Mr. William Moller thinks that Hoff's Malt Extract will RESTORE my APPETITE, for it is years since I relished food, &c.

E. C. STEPHENSON.

HARTFORD, Conn., April 10, 1867.

GOOD TO A CONSUMPTIVE CONSTITUTION.

I hand you this, etc., (follow order.) I avail myself of the opportunity to state that Hoff's Malt Extract has done a GREAT DEAL of good to my CONSUMPTIVE CONSTITUTION. I shall be happy to RECOMMEND it always.

THE GREAT AMERICAN TEA CO.,

ESTABLISHED 1861.

The Immense Profits of the Tea Trade Greatly Reduced.

The proprietors became fully convinced, several years ago, that the consumers of Tea and Coffee were paying too many and too large profits on these articles of every day consumption, and therefore organized THE GREAT AMERICAN TEA COMPANY, to do away, as far as possible, with these enormous drains upon the consumers, and to supply them with these necessaries at the smallest possible price.

To give our readers an idea of the profits which have been made in the Tea trade, we will start with the American houses, leaving out of the account entirely the profits of the Chinese factors.

1st..........The American houses in China or Japan make large profits on their sales or shipments—and some of the richest retired merchants in this country have made their immense fortunes through their houses in China.

2d..........The banker makes large profits upon the foreign exchange used in the purchase of teas.

3d..........The importer makes a profit of 30 to 50 per cent. in many cases.

4th..........On its arrival here it is sold by the cargo, and the purchaser sells it to the speculator in invoices of 1,000 to 2,000 packages, at an average profit of about 10 per cent.

5th..........The speculator sells it to the wholesale tea dealer in lines, at a profit of 10 to 15 per cent.

6th..........The wholesale tea dealer sells it to the wholesale grocer in lots to suit his trade, at a profit of about 10 per cent.

7th..........The wholesale grocer sells it to the retail dealer at a profit of 15 to 25 per cent.

8th..........The retailer sells it to the consumer for all the profit he can get.

When you have added to these eight profits as many brokerages, cartages, storages, cooperages and waste, and add the original cost of the tea, it will be perceived what the consumer has to pay. And now we propose to show why we can sell so very much lower than other dealers.

We propose to do away with all these various profits and brokerages, cartages, storages, cooperages and waste, with the exception of a small commission paid for purchasing to our correspondents in China and Japan, one cartage and a small profit to ourselves—which, on our large sales, will amply pay us.

Parties getting their Teas from us may confidently rely upon getting them pure and fresh, as they come direct from the Custom-house stores to our warehouses.

OOLONG, (Black,) 60c., 70c., 80c., 90c., best $1 per ℔.

MIXED, (Green and Black,) 60c., 70c., 80c., 90c., best $1 per ℔.

Consumers can save from 50c. to $1 per ℔, by purchasing their Teas of the
